HARMON GOES IN ONCE MORE

Ohio Governor is Given a Second Inauguration to High Place.

MUSIC OF BELLS IN BUCKEYE CAPITAL

Stubbs in Kansas Preaches Against Monopolies at Inauguration.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 9.—Judson Harmon was inaugurated governor of Ohio today for the second time, with the severest of Jeffersonian simplicity. The ceremony was one among the simplest in the history of the state, the governor stepping out of his private office into the reception room of the executive chambers and there subscribing to the oath.

The oath was administered by Chief Justice Wm. T. Spear and the governor used the old family bible on which he took the oath at his first inauguration. Mrs. Harmon, members of the family and friends witnessed the oath taking.

The chimes of Trinity Episcopal church, near the state house, rang out the news that a new administration had begun and will be the only announcement to the outside world of the event.

A Musical Program.

The chimes played "Star Spangled Banner," "America," "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and "Hail to the Chief." The governor then returned to his private office and began working. The omission of the inaugural address made the inauguration of Governor Harmon unprecedented. As far as known the governors of Ohio have always made an address after their inauguration, outlining their policies.

Most of the democratic officials took hold of office today. Atlee Pomerene was sworn in as lieutenant-governor, and Wednesday he will be elected United States senator. State Treasurer D. S. Creamer; Secretary of State Charles H. Graves, and Attorney General Timothy S. Hogan were also sworn in.

STUBBS FOR REFORM IN KANSAS.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 9.—Gov. W. R. Stubbs and the other republican state officers of Kansas were inaugurated in Representative hall here today. Gov. Stubbs, who began his second term, delivered an inaugural address. He said in part:

"There is a universal sentiment among our people demanding the enactment of rigid, plainly written laws that will loosen the iron grip which has been fastened upon commerce of the nation by monopolies and trusts. A false and illegal industrial system has been established in America, which robs the people of the benefits of competition and compels every man, woman and child to pay tribute in excessive, extortionate profits, which aggregate many hundreds of millions annually to trusts, combinations and monopolies.

"By crushing out competition the steel trust has been able to maintain extortionate prices for steel rails, for steel and its products, iron, and its products, while the cost of production of these goods has constantly been reduced.

"In the face of the enormous reduction of the moving of freight the railroads are actually for higher rates."

The legislature will meet tomorrow.

DEFENDS OKLAHOMA LAWS.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 9.—Governor Lee Cruce, assuming the duties of governor today, took occasion to defend the constitution of the young state, branded, he said, by its enemies as radical, even vicious.

Governor Cruce said in part:

"We assert there is nothing radical, or strikingly new in our constitution. We have simply attempted to profit by the experience of others. Oklahoma's constitution is the condensation into a single instrument of the best and most vital provisions to be found in forty-five other state constitutions.

"That operation under the constitution is conducive to good government is established by the unprecedented growth of Oklahoma since statehood.

"During these three years the increase in taxable values has averaged $100,000,000 per year, until now the total taxable wealth of the state approximates $1,000,000,000. This wonderful growth has been accomplished during a period of national financial depression supplemented by the most merciless and unwarranted attacks of the state's enemies ever witnessed in political history.

"Capital and labor should be friends. Both are sorely needed in the future development of the state and neither shall unduly oppress the other if I can prevent it."

CARROLL IN IOWA.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 9.—Governor B. F. Carroll in his annual message to the Iowa legislature, transmitted today, recommended a general revision of the primary election law, urged a wider power for his state board of control and parole board and for the railway commission. Specifically, his recommendations were:

Direct inheritance tax, graduated according to amounts, in addition to a rewritten collateral inheritance tax law.

Concurrence in the proposed amendment of the federal constitution to permit federal income tax laws.

Stricter laws for safety of miners.

Arbitration board for labor disputes.

A larger and more powerful public utilities commission, non-partisan and with executive power.

Primary election law amendments to enforce observance of party affiliations. State supervision of highway construction and active building work.

GIVEN RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

Right of Conscience is Restored to People of Nicaragua.

New Orleans, Jan. 9.—Religious freedom, for ten years denied the people of Nicaragua, has been restored by an edict issued by President Jose Estrada. A copy of the edict reached this city yesterday. By order of President Estrada the Morovian mission schools of German Protestant denominations along the east coast of Nicaragua have been permitted to reopen. These schools were ordered closed by General Jose Santos Zelaya almost a decade ago, on the charge that they were disseminating ideas contrary to those of the government, and of a revolutionary character. Since that time there has been little or no religious freedom in that country.

TRIAL OF SCHENK WOMAN IS BEGUN

Wife of Wheeling Millionaire Faces Bar on Poisoning Charge.

H//SBAND THE VICTIM

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 9.—The trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, charged with attempting to poison her husband, John O. Schenk, opened this morning at 9 o'clock.

The greatest interest was manifested in the preliminaries of the famous case, owing to the prominence of the parties involved and a big crowd surged about the court house long before the time set for convening court. Guards were stationed at each of the doors, allowing only a crowd which comfortably filled the room to pass inside.

Many out of town newspaper men are present and arrangements have been made for their accommodation. Judge L. S. Jordan, who is presiding, is of mature years and does not believe in sensations. The state case is looked after by Prosecuting Attorney J. H. Handlen, while J. J. H. O'Brien, Frank O'Brien and S. O. Byrce appeared for Mrs. Schenk. The venire of jurymen were called and the examination for jurymen was at once begun.

TOBACCO TRUST CASE IS ARGUED

Government Completes Presensation of History of Octopus.

DEFENSE IS HEARD

Washington, Jan. 9.—To listen to the story of the tobacco business of the world was the work almost exclusively today of the supreme court of the United States. First the government concluded its tale of the growth, wealth and power of the so-called "tobacco trust," portrayed as having been constructed out of the fortunes of disheartened competitors. Then there was heard something from the other side, by way of defense of the lawful acquisition, through keen American ingenuity, of tobacco industries. Upon it all depends the proposed dissolution of the American Tobacco corporation, as a combination or monopoly in restraint of trade.

Reviewed Growth of Tobacco Trade.

J. C. McReynolds concluded his opening arguments in behalf of the government. On Friday both bar and court followed him intently as he described the trade in tobacco, first in the colonial days, with rival buyers coming to the door of the farmer's cabin to barter for the leaf from his tobacco patch, and then in the present day, when he described competition in the leaf market as so completely eradicated that the American Tobacco corporations even purchased leaf on a commission for "the British tobacco trust."

Calls It a Fairy Tale.

"That is as interesting as a fairy tale," said one who had sat under the spell of the speaker, to Delaney Nicoll, who was to open the argument for the tobacco corporations.

"It is a fairy tale," remarked Nicoll, as he jotted down a note for reference in his argument immediately following Mr. McReynolds.

After the history had been concluded there was much speculation as to whether or not the court would ply the attorney with questions, dealing possibly with the knotty points which may have led to the assignment of the case for reargument.

BELIEVES IN EVOLUTION.

Bishop Lawrence Calls Story of Adam and Eve Parable.

Boston, Jan. 9.—In answer to a request from the audience that he explain his statements of man's descent from the ape, Bishop Lawrence, in Ford hall, last night declared that the story of Adam and Eve was a parable invented to satisfy the child mind of the early man.

"It is just as well to tell the child today," continued the bishop, "that God made us, then explain later on, as his mind develops, and he will understand the theory of evolution."

COMMITTEES ANNOUNCED

Speaker Veneman Names the Appointments Made for the House.

CRAVENS IS THE BIG ARTILLERY

Allen County is Passed Up Without Chairmanship of Committee.

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—Both houses of the Indiana legislature convened at 2 o'clock this afternoon after the Sunday recess. Speaker Albert J. Veneman in the house announced his list of standing committees. Chairman William S. Racey, of the house executive committee, announced the names of employes. Mason Niblack, former speaker of the house, was appointed parliamentarian. In the senate the committee having in charge the matter of drafting a suitable resolution on the death of Senator C. K. McCullough, of Anderson, made its report. The senate also took up the house appropriation bill covering the expenses of the assembly, which was passed in the lower branch last week, and it probably will be passed before the senate adjourns today.

Speaker Veneman named Joe Cravens, of Madison, chairman of the ways and means committee and has designated him as democratic floor leader and "whip of the house."

ATTACKS THE LORIMER SEAT

Beveridge Presents Resolution to Declare the Chair Vacant.

RACE WITH OWEN FOR THE HONOR

Indiana Senator Files a Minority Report in the Senate.

Washington, an. 9.—The fight to prevent Senator Lorimer, of Illinois, retaining his seat in the United States senate, was opened today with a contest between Senators Beveridge, of Indiana, and Owen, of Oklahoma, both of whom contested for the right to fire the first gun in the same cause. Senator Beveridge, by virtue of being a member of the committee on privileges and elections which investigated charges of bribery against Mr. Lorimer, gained a tactical victory by filing a minority report attacking the position of his colleagues on the committee who voted to exonerate the Illinois senator. Senator Owen, however, introduced a resolution to declare the election of Senator Lorimer to have been illegal and void, but he was not permitted to address the senate in support. The senate held that the resolution under the rules would have to go over until tomorrow.

The Beveridge Resolution.

Mr. Beveridge then submitted his report, the conclusion of which was:

"That this election was invalid under any possible view of the law. If the senate so concludes it is our duty so to declare. Therefore I submit the following resolution:

"'Resolved that William Lorimer was not duly and legally elected to a seat in the senate of the United States by the legislature of the state of Illinois.'"

Before the report was filed Senator Lorimer made a brief speech declaring his innocence of bribery, and the innocence of his friends of any participation in corrupt practices in connection with his election. He announced his intention to be present during the discussion of his case.

Beveridge Wins Appeal.

CANNON WINS A FRESH VICTORY

New Assault on the Rules Results in Insurgent Discomfiture.

DEMOCRATS LOOK ON

Washington, Jan. 9.—Another hot fight over the rules of the house and another locking of horns between Speaker Cannon and his opponents on the floor came to a head this afternoon.

In ruling on a rules resolution by Representative Fuller, of Illinois, the speaker held that the action taken by the house last spring when his power was broken after the famous battle over the Norris resolution "was not a precedent but a revolution." This defiance was answered by an appeal from the decision of the chair. This called forth a protracted roll call.

The house sustained the speaker by a vote of 233 to 53. The insurgent republicans voted to overrule the speaker but got little democratic support.

MAJOR MORRISEY WILL DIE.

Ex-Congressman Run Over by Street Car in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Major George H. Morrissey, a former member of the house of representatives and well known to many members of that body was perhaps fatally injured when run over by a street car last night. Mrs. Morrissey was with him when the accident occurred. They were on their way to church. Major Morrissey slipped and fell just as they had left the car. He rolled beneath the wheels. His foot was so crushed as to necessitate amputation and he sustained other injuries. His advanced age, 78 years, renders his recovery practically impossible.

SERIOUS RIOTING IN METZ.

Troops Called to Disperse Crowds Singing the Marseillaise.

Metz, Germany, Jan. 9.—Troops were called last night to disperse crowds that were parading through the streets singing the "Marseillaise" and cheering for the republic of France. The demonstrations were made by socialists and radicals in protest against the new constitution proposed for Alsace-Lorraine. There were similar gatherings in other cities.

WANTS TO EXTEND TRACK.

Nickel Plate Road Will Ask the Permission of Board.

The Nickel Plate road will ask the board of public works for permission to extend its north track that now ends at Barr street across that thoroughfare to reach some property east that is to be used for manufacturing purposes.

The confirmation of the assessment roll for paving Home avenue will be held over until Thursday night. It was down for a hearing this afternoon, but the board held it up as most of the property holders are employed during the day and would have been compelled to have lost time if they had been compelled to attend.

CAPT. DICKSON QUITS FORCE

Second in Command of Fort Wayne Police Force Admits He Took Presents.

REFUSES TO NAME GIVER; RESIGNS

Probe Started by Board of Safety Going In—Editor Moynihan Quizzed.

Robert Dickson resigned as captain of police this morning and gave as his reasons that he would not go before the board of public safety and tell who gave him a diamond stud and a gold watch that he received as a Christmas present.

"I acknowledge getting the diamond and the watch but I swear by all that is good and holy that in the sixteen years I have been connected with the police department that I never received one cent of tribute.

CAPT. ROBERT DICKSON,
One of Superiors in Fort Wayne Police Department Who Has Resigned.

"I court a grand jury investigation on this and I want to say to you that I hope it will come around. I don't think anybody has gotten any graft because to tell you the truth, I don't think it is there to get. The women of the flats are not getting enough income to pay anything if they wanted to.

"So far as I know no other members of the force received anything in the way of jewelry or costly presents. They got cigars, neckties and things like that, but I don't believe there was anything else given. Chief Elliott's record is clear.

"I guess I made a mistake at that, but I believe it was framed up on me to get me to take the presents so that I would lose my job. I didn't think so much about it at the time but now that I have accepted the things I certainly am not going on the witness stand and yelp."

Resigned Early in Day.

Before the board started on its investigation this morning it called in the men accused of receiving presents and gave them all a chance to say what they had to say. The resignation of Captain Dickson was expected and has been for several days.

These meetings with the board were held behind locked doors and when the time for the official session of the board arrived the members went right along with taking testimony although at that time they had the resignation and had accepted it.

However, they had determined to see whether or not there were any other officers involved and they went right ahead until after A. J. Moynihan of the Journal-Gazette, and Mary Maloly had been examined.

Mr. Moynihan said that he knew none of the things that his paper had charged of his own personal knowledge but that the information came to him from a tax payer and a citizen of high standing, who might be reached through the medium of a grand jury investigation and added that the charges and the startling article of his Sunday edition signed "Perhaps" was in the shape of a communication from this citizen who stands ready to prove just what he has.

As to White Slavery.

He said that his crusade was begun because conditions are so bad and added that girls are being debauched right here in Fort Wayne and educated for lives of shame.

He said he had a letter from Garrett in which the writer said that Mary Maloly had tried to induce a married woman there to leave her home and husband for a life of shame in Fort Wayne.

He also made the startling assertion that the woman had the effrontery to ask trades people to put an advance of 10 per cent on goods sold to the houses of ill-fame and to give her this much money for her bit. He cited one man who had practically kicked the big Syrian woman out of his store for making the proposition to him.

Nothing Sensational.

There was nothing sensational about the testimony of Mary Maloly. She parried with consummate skill most of the direct questions asked her about her connection with the women of the underworld and was certain on only one point.

She was positive in her assertion that she had never given any money, jewelry or any other thing of value to any member of the police force as she does not believe in giving presents.

BUYS A SITE ON SUPERIOR

G. E. Bursley & Co. Closes Contract for a New Location.

IT HINGES UPON TRACK QUESTION

Planning Erection of Big Building at Clinton and Superior.

Provided only that trackage facilities can be secured through permission from the city to extend a switching track across Barr street in order to reach its new quarters, G. E. Bursley & Co. will erect a big wholesale grocery establishment at Superior and Clinton streets.

Contracts have been closed for the purchase of the real estate at the southeast corner of the two streets, and the Nickel Plate railroad will at once ask permission of the city authorities to extend its present track, which now reaches the buildings of the gas company westward across Barr street, in order to give trackage facilities to the wholesale grocery concern. If this is granted, preparations for the erection of the new building will be undertaken at once.

The Bursley company has secured an option from the Nickel Plate railroad and from William J. Fuhrmann upon a tract of ground at the southeast corner of Clinton and Superior streets that will give the company a frontage of 182 feet on Superior street and extend southward to the Nickel Plate right of way. It includes the ground formerly used for the Diether lumber yards, as well as Mr. Fuhrmann's property at the corner, and is directly opposite the City mills.

James M. McKay, of G. E. Bursley & Co., stated today that contracts for the purchase of the entire tract had already been executed, contingent only upon the Nickel Plate securing the right to extend its switch track westward across Barr street in order to reach the site. A year or more ago property between Main and Pearl street, at Webster, was purchased with a view of erecting a wholesale grocery establishment there, but this was later abandoned in favor of the project that is now under way.

FINANCIAL SKIES ARE MUCH CLEARER

Situation in New York is Bolstered by Great Interests.

NO DANGER FEARED

New York, Jan. 9.—The financial horizon was decidedly clearer today as a result of conferences held last night to provide against any unsettling of the stability of the financial organizations allied to the Carnegie Trust company.

Early in the day no word came of anything threatening and the feeling prevailed in financial quarters that normal conditions were to be expected. One thing appeared to be plain, namely that the trouble of the Carnegie company and its allies was purely an isolated condition and not symptomatic of any widespread general trouble in the financial or banking world.

At the Twelfth ward bank, having headquarters in Harlem, there was a group of perhaps fifty people in line early in the day. Some nervousness was manifested by some of the depositors, but banking officials took steps to allay this feeling. Many went away without carrying out their intention to withdraw funds.

As an indication of the general feeling in financial quarters prices on the stock exchange showed fractional gains in a majority of stocks and the market was moderately active. Some of the leading stocks showed advances.

A similar sentiment was shown from other financial centers.

DINNER FOR E. L. CRAW.

Postoffice Attaches to Honor Retiring Official.

E. L. Craw, who recently resigned his position as assistant postmaster of Fort Wayne after a long term of service, will be the guest of honor at a banquet to be given by postoffice attaches in the old Commercial club rooms on Thursday evening.

Covers will be laid for one hundred guests, including all the clerks and carriers in the postoffice and the rural mail carriers as well as postoffice officials. Postmaster Hanna will be toastmaster, and on the program for talks are T. W. Blair, James Hattery, C. F. Kettler, W. G. Stahl, Henry Geyer, Paul Richter, C. A. Stockbridge and M. C. Chambers. Milo Smith will be heard in a cornet solo, and a quartet composed of Messrs. Zellers, Kendall, Stover and Smith will sing.

Arrangements for the event are in charge of a committee composed of W. G. Stahl, Harry Ludick, J. S. Braden, F. R. Hamilton, Henry Geyer, Tom Davis and Oswald Brudi.

OCEAN MAGNATE UNDER KNIFE.

Hamburg, Germany, Jan. 9.—Albert Ballin, director general of the Hamburg-American Steamship line, today successfully underwent an operation for appendicitis.

OLD SUBSIDY IS UP AGAIN

Gallinger Starts a Bill in the Senate for a New Raid.

IT ELIMINATES ALL PACIFIC LINES

Designed to Break Up the Monopoly in Lines to South America.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Senator Gallinger today introduced a revised ocean mail subsidy bill which eliminates from present consideration all trans-Pacific lines and applies only to the establishment of ocean mail services on routes to South America, south of the equator—that is, to Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Chile and Peru.

No special provision is made for lines to the Isthmus of Panama because it is expected the canal will be open for commerce by the summer of 1913, which is as soon as the proposed new lines could be established. Steamships then can pass through the canal on the long routes down the west coast of South America.

As in other bills presented, it is proposed the postmaster general shall be authorized to pay for ocean mail service on vessels of the second class on South American routes the same rate per mile ($4) as is now paid for service on vessels of the first class between the United States and European ports.

Takes Account of Canal.

In order to serve the new commerce which it is expected the canal will open for the southern states it is provided that if more than one line is established from the North Atlantic coast, one of the lines shall touch at least one port south of Cape Charles for mail, passengers and freight on the outward and homeward passages.

A provision which is now in subsidy bills forbids the award of any contract for an ocean mail line to any bidder engaged in competitive transportation by rail or in the business of exporting or importing merchandise. Moreover, the postmaster general is directed to cancel any contract, the performance of which shall "rest within the control of any competitive railroad company, or any person or persons in control of the same through stock ownership or otherwise."

May Cancel Contracts.

The postmaster general is directed also to cancel any contracts held by any person who gives undue preference to any particular person, corporation or locality or any particular description of traffic.

The total expenditure in any one year under the bill is not to exceed $4,000,000 and shall not in any case exceed the amount of revenue received from the foreign mail service over the above amount otherwise paid for each service.

The framers of the bill believe that it will break the present monopoly in ocean transportation between the United States and the principal countries of South America. It is regarded as likely to create at least two lines from the Atlantic coast to Brazil and Argentina and a line from Puget Sound and San Francisco to Panama and the west coast of South America.

Would Require Many New Ships.

These new services would require the construction of from twenty to thirty steamships capable of a speed of at least sixteen knots an hour and with a gross tonnage of from 8,000 to 12,000 tons, built on designs approved by the navy department.

Under the terms of the contracts the ships would have to be turned over to the use of the government in times of war. Not one American steamship is now running on any of the routes covered by the bill.

WIFE ILL WITH POISON.

Strange Case of Mr. and Mrs. Strobaker in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 9.—Mrs. G. M. Strobaker, wife of the grain elevator superintendent, who was poisoned with strychnine under peculiar circumstances Saturday, is a patient in the same hospital and, according to her physicians, is suffering from the same poison. Mr. Strobaker has so far recovered that he probably will be discharged from the hospital within a few days. Mrs. Strobaker, the physicians say, has a chance for recovery.

LINER ON ROCKS.

Libeau, Russia, Jan. 9.—The steamer Russia, from New York for this port, piled up on a submerged reef four miles out from here yesterday afternoon. Her 105 passengers were landed safely. All efforts to float the liner have so far proved futile. Three of her holds are filled with water.

THE WEATHER.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Forecast for Indiana—Fair, warmer tonight; Tuesday, increasing cloudiness and warmer.

Ohio—Fair tonight; colder in north portion; Tuesday increasing cloudiness and warmer; diminishing west winds, becoming variable.

Lower Michigan—Fair tonight; colder, except in extreme west portion; Tuesday increasing cloudiness and warmer; snow in the afternoon or night; moderate to brisk shifting winds, becoming southeast.

Illinois—Fair tonight and probably Tuesday; warmer Tuesday and in north and central portion tonight.

GETTING READY FOR GAS SHOW

Arcade is Being Prepared for the Unique Exposition.

NEXT WEEK IS DATE

Workmen are now busily preparing the Arcade building for the big gas exposition to be held next week in connection with the state convention of the Indiana Gas association, which opens on January 18.

A large main pipe has been laid through the center of the big lobby of the building, and smaller pipes have been placed across the front of the structure where the big gas arc lamps will be attached. The open lobby will be enclosed with temporary doors in order that visitors to the exposition may inspect the show in comfort. Both the main lobby and the balconies will be utilized in the demonstration, which will show countless modern uses to which artificial gas is now devoted.

General Manager Mulholland, of the Indiana Lighting company, and his men are enthusiastic over the big event, which will be unique in its way, and it will be the first time such a show has been held outside the very largest cities. Manufacturers of gas appliances of every kind from all over the country are planning to have their devices on display at the Fort Wayne exposition, which will continue for four days.

ILL IN CHICAGO; DATE CANCELLED

Mme. Schumann-Heik Unable to Appear in Fort Wayne Tonight.

REGRETS IT DEEPLY

Mme. Schumann-Heink, announced to appear in a song recital at the Majestic theater this evening, is ill in Chicago and is unable to reach Fort Wayne at this time. The management was therefore reluctantly compelled this morning to cancel the date.

James E. Devoe and F. C. Rudiger, representing Mme. Schumann-Heink, reached the city at noon from Chicago. It was explained that the distinguished vocalist was seized with a chill soon after singing in Chicago Sunday afternoon, and is confined to her bed there.

The cancellation of the Fort Wayne engagement is a matter of profound regret to Mme. Schumann-Heink, who has appeared here in operas, but never in recital. The seat sale was a very large one.

SENTINEL WANT ADDS ALWAYS GET RESULTS.

LANDED ON WIFE AND IS PINCHED

Ed Diffenbaugh Objected to Being Caught With His Sweetheart.

CITY COURT CASES

Ed Diffenbaugh, employed at the Fort Wayne rolling mills and living at 1527 Wall street, objects to being followed by his wife when he goes courting and because his better half caught him dead to rights Saturday night he either struck or shoved her and she fell in the car track on Pontiac street and was bruised. This morning he was fined $25 and costs in the city court for assault and battery.

Diffenbaugh and his wife went shopping Saturday afternoon and she suspected that he was going out to see his girl and she watched him. At midnight she located him in a house near Pontiac and Thomas street and called the police. He came out before the officer got there and when his wife upbraided him he shoved her out in the street car track. She had him arrested for assault and battery. A surety of the peace case against him was continued. Mrs. Diffenbaugh said her husband gave the girl the name of Ed Russell and said he was not married.

The Other Cases.

Floyd Campbell, arrested for vagrancy, was advised to get a job or get out of town.

Mike Koehler wept as he told the judge he was not drunk when he was arrested Saturday night, but the judge said he didn't believe him. He gave him a chance under an indefinite continuance.

Police Notes.

Somebody got into Councilman Charles Dittoe's henroop back of his Berry street grocery and nipped a couple of his chickens.

MUTS SEND CHILDREN HOME.

Parents Complain But Teachers Have No Other Course.

Parents have been complaining to the board of health that pupils are sent out of the schools when they are suffering from heavy colds and there has been a lot of criticism in the matter. Dr. Edie Croll, secretary of the board, says teachers have no other course open to them as the state law specifically says they must send pupils home when they are ill whether the disease is transmissable or not. Teachers who fail to do this are liable to fines.

CHILD IS DEAD FROM INJURIES

Little Son of Peter Lauer Fatally Hurt at Toledo.

FAMILY LIVED HERE

Arthur Lauer, 10 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lauer, former residents of Fort Wayne, died Sunday from injuries received in an accident while out sleighriding in Toledo some days before.

The mother of the child was prior to her marriage Miss Koch, daughter of Barney Koch, a grocer on East Washington street. The remains will be brought to Fort Wayne for funeral services and interment, arriving at noon over the Wabash, and will be taken to the Schone & Ankenbruck undertaking rooms.

MAHANNA.

Juannah Mahanna, 75 years of age, died at 9 o'clock Monday morning at the county infirmary from senility. Miss Mahanna lived for many years in the Comparet home, but recently her mental condition made her removal to the infirmary necessary.

The remains were removed to the Peltier undertaking rooms, where funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, with interment in the Comparet family lot at Lindenwood.

SCHEELE.

Mrs. Sophia Scheele, wife of Henry Scheele, residing at 2534 Force street, died Saturday afternoon at the age of 69 years. She had been in failing health for the past three years, and during the last three weeks her condition had been critical.

Mrs. Scheele was a native of Adams county and was an active member of Zion Lutheran church and of the Ladies' society of that congregation. Surviving members of the family include the husband and the following children: William, August, Henry, Martin and Herman Scheele, Mrs. Emma Fuehshuber and Mrs. Mary Wesling. There are also two brothers and three sisters—Charles and Henry Meyer, Mrs. Fred Nahrwold, Mrs. William Scheuman and Mrs. Henry Wefel.

Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence and at 2 o'clock from Zion Lutheran church, Rev. Luehr officiating.

WALLACE.

Hazel Wallace, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace, died Saturday evening at the family home in Nine Mile from scarlet fever at the age of two years.

Funeral services were held privately Monday afternoon.

M'MANIGAL.

Mrs. Mahala McManigal, for many years a resident of Fort Wayne, died Sunday at her home, Bass street and Fairfield avenue, at the age of 79 years. The remains have been removed to the home of a son at 3131 Oakley street.

Mrs. McManigal came to Fort Wayne fifty years ago and has resided here continuously since that time. Her husband, Josiah McManigal, died thirty-one years ago, and surviving relatives include three sons—Harry and James McManigal, of this city, and George McManigal, of Chicago.

SHEPLER.

James K. Polk Shepler, a well known Allen county resident, died Sunday afternoon at his home near Ferguson Station at the age of 65 years. Death was due to pneumonia after an illness of but a few days.

Mr. Shepler had lived in Allen county since childhood and was well known and highly esteemed. He served as a soldier during the civil war and was a member of Sion S. Bass post, G. A. R., and of Roanoke lodge of Masons. Surviving relatives include the widow and five children—Laura, Roy, Ralph and Rebecca Shepler and Mrs. Alex. Cunnison.

AVALANCHES IN THE ALPS.

Turin, Italy, Jan. 9.—Avalanches from the Alps of extraordinary extent are reported, particularly in the province of Cuneo. Between the villages of Limone and Vernante two snow slides, estimated at five hundred thousand cubic feet, have obstructed the railway. In certain districts near Maddelena hill many houses have been isolated. In one valley the only thing appearing above the snow are chimney tops and the upper ends of telegraph poles.

WITS WORK WELL ON POSTUM "There's a Reason"

NESTOR OF THE INDIANA HOUSE

Oldest Representative is Hale and Active and Likes the Job.

THE YOUNGEST SOLON

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—Appropriately does Benjamin C. Johnson, of Shoals, representative from Orange and Martin counties, sit in seat No. 100. One hundred is the highest number in the matter of seat designation in the house. Mr. Johnson, 74, is the oldest member in point of years.

Almost within hand-shaking distance of the house patriarch is George S. Billman, of Shelbyville, representative from Shelby county. Billman, 26, is the youngest member in the lower branch of the legislature. He sits in seat No. 22.

A Pioneer and a Democrat.

Johnson is a pioneer merchant and banker of Shoals; Billman is a school teacher. The beardless lawmaker declares he came to the legislature to spear the fish law. The Nestor of Shoals says he is not here to set the house afire, but will profit by his experience of many years to serve as a sort of balance wheel for budding and intrepid statesmen.

Mr. Johnson is a democrat to the core, but believes the man with opposing views has a right to live. "I am a partisan," he said today, "but I hope a fair one. Too often in the heat of a campaign men forget the church, the lodge and many of those things that make for human good. After the war is over they sit in sackcloth and ashes, doing penance for hasty words and broken friendships. I believe in the brotherhood of man and sought to observe the golden rule during my campaign."

Likes the Business.

Mr. Johnson's years sit lightly on his whitened head. He smokes a cigar deftly, walks with a quick step and with a piercing eye looks into the heart of things.

"I rather like this legislative business," he said. "This staying up late o' nights does not bother me. If I can get four hours sleep I am satisfied. I am here to serve my people, and I will put forth my best efforts to do so." This is Mr. Johnson's first term.

One hundred and fifty copies of the United States senate manual were unloaded in five mail bags at the capitol building, as a compliment from United States Senator Benjamin F. Shively. On the front cover of each volume was the gilded name of the representative or senator for whom the book was intended. In each volume was Senator Shively's card.

William Steelman, of Hazleton, roll clerk in the senate, an appointee of Senator George W. Curtis, of Mount Vernon, perhaps is known to more men and knows more men than any other individual in the capital, whether member of the senate, member of the house or state house attache. Steelman was here last session as doorkeeper at the main entrance of representatives hall.

Knows Everybody.

Mr. Steelman takes pride in his wide acquaintanceship. He declares that two years ago he knew every one of the hundred members of the house and of the fifty in the senate, by name, that he knew their initials, that he knew their business, that he knew what county they were from, and all of them were personal friends of Steelman.

The senate roll clerk says his wide acquaintanceship is not due to any particular faculty to retain names and faces, but that it has been brought about by hard work and by always being on the job. He says he makes his work a business, that to get acquainted—to know the men about him—is part of his business. He says he knows every holdover member in the present session and that within a week he will know the newcomers as well. Steelman is early at his desk, and always is late getting away. He is a farmer, but he likes the air of legislative halls.

ATTACKS THE LORRIMER SEAT

ator Lorimer should have precedence was not settled until after an appeal had been taken from a ruling by Vice President Sherman and he had been reversed.

Mr. Owen was first recognized. He presented a resolution similar to that which Senator Beveridge had incorporated in his minority report. It was read and Mr. Owen was prepared to speak upon it when Mr. Beveridge demanded the regular order, which was the introduction of morning business. The vice president ruled that the Owen resolution was of highest privilege and that Mr. Owen, having been recognized, had the right of the floor. Promptly appealing from the chair Mr. Beveridge was supported by a majority of the senate in his contention that the Owen resolution would have to lie over one day under the rules. This permitted Mr. Beveridge to submit his report and have it read in the open senate.

The Beveridge Report.

The Beveridge report reviews the testimony bearing upon the alleged acceptance of bribes b four members of the legislature, and the testimony of these men that the bribes had been paid by three other members. The minority report declares that it is an undisputed fact of conclusive force, although the majorit ignores it, that the confessed bribe-takers were shown to have had in their possession, in bills of large denominations, unusually large sums of money soon after the dates when they swore to having received the alleged bribes. This statement is made in reply to the contention of the majority that the men who confessed to having received bribes were not to be believed.

Senator Beveridge devotes considerable attention to the claim of the majority that at least three of those who confessed to having received bribes had been "compelled" or "driven" to make these confessions because of the treatment received from officers of Cook and Sangamon counties, Illinois.

Mr. Moynihan There.

Chief interest in the morning session centered in the testimony of Andrew J. Moynihan, editor of the Journal-Gazette, whose charges started the board on its hunt for testimony.

"Mr. Moynihan," said City Attorney Hogan, "you know the reason this session is called and it might save time and trouble to have you make a statement about the charges your paper has filed."

"Well, I want to say that all of the matter published in the Journal-Gazette is contributory and comes from what we consider reliable sources.

"Directly, I know nothing about the matter because I do not keep in touch with such things, but the people I quote are responsible and I have no interest other than to get at the facts."

"Do you care to give the source of your information?" was asked.

"No. On this point I am under obligations and I don't want to tell unless I am compelled to. The writer of the article published yesterday and signed "Perhaps" is a citizen and a taxpayer and a man of the first standing."

Mr. Moynihan added that he expects within the next ten days to get all of the names and dates and told the board that once in possession of this information he would not ask it to call a meeting, but that he would come out with the names, the dates and all of the other detail that will be necessary.

Mr. Moynihan made the statement that Mary Maloly had recently gone to all of the merchants who sell goods to the women on the flats and told them to add ten per cent. to the prices they are now charging and to give this to her. He said that he had been informed this proposition had been put up to Louis Langard, proprietor of a grocery on Columbia street, and that he had ordered the woman out of his place and told her he would not be a party to any such transaction.

The witness insisted that people who sell goods to the inmates of the houses of ill fame, messenger boys and others whose business brings them in contact with the under world be summoned and said that some interesting information could be obtained about the presents that were received.

He said the policemen could not close their desks the night before Christmas because they had so many presents to put into them. He asked that Harry Beyerle, night stationmaster, be called and a summons was issued for him. The messenger service managers and Mr. Langard were also sent for.

Makes a Denial.

Mary Maloly was there with Attorney W. C. Ryan as her representative and she gave nothing but a denial to the charge that she had given presents and said that "those newspapers are a fool." She said she did not believe in it.

Mr. Ryan said he had no objection to allowing his client to answer any questions that might throw light on the acceptance by members of the police force of presents from her or any one else, but added that he would not consent to have her give any answers that might be used against her in event charges of any kind are filed.

In the course of her testimony the woman said she had been in America twelve years and six years of that time she had spent in Fort Wayne. She said she owns property on Lewis street and on North Clinton street, but held no other property either by ownership or lease. This was asked to ascertain her connection with the women of the flats.

Her denials that she had given any presents were very emphatic. She said she had been to police headquarters a number of times to ask the chief of police to locate women who had bought goods of her and skipped out and added that he had refused several times to have anything to do with the cases. These two witnesses are all that were examined at the morning session and an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock as the board of safety wanted to get hold of some other witnesses.

The board members said when the investigation was resumed this afternoon that they expected no other resignations. Secretary Johnson, of the board, announced that Sergeant Louis Linker had employed an attorney in the matter.

He rather put it on the ground that the officer wants to get the testimony as the basis of a damage suit rather than as a means of defense. He also said the other officers might secure counsel to take part in the investigation for the same purpose.

Charlie Clark on Stand.

Charlie Clark, proprietor of the Arlington hotel, was the first witness of the afternoon and said he had been in business seven years.

"Is this hotel operated as an assignation house?"

On advice of his attorney, W. C. Ryan, he declined to answer this question. He said his place is run "just the same as any other hotel," but admitted that most of his patrons registered as man and wife. He has twenty-six rooms and said he had only five or six regular boarders.

He denied in the most positive terms that he had ever given to any member of the police force, directly or indirectly, any presents of any kind and said that he had never been approached by any member of the force.

Chief Ben Elliott and Detective Sergt. W. F. Pappert, of the police force denied that they had received any jewelry from Mary Maloly or Charlie Clark, and the other officers charged under the proceedings did the same thing as a matter of form. This form was complied with in order to give the men a chance to be exonerated in event nothing is found against them.

Chief Got Some Small Presents.

Mr. Elliott produced five boxes of cigars from saloonkeepers and said he got a pocketbook and a cigar case. This purse and case were sent to him without any name and he did not know who sent them.

He said he received a diamond pin from the members of his family as a Christmas present and he produced a receipt from B. Wartell to show that he paid $90 for this stone on Dec. 21.

M. L. Norton, of the Red Line Messenger service produced his records for December 24, 25 and 26 and showed that a package was sent from 1626 South Calhoun street to police headquarters. This was from the Wabash depot. There was a call to 248 North Calhoun street and a package was delivered to police headquarters and another from 252 on the same street. Both of these are houses of ill fame. The records do not show who the presents were delivered to.

Jewelers Are Summoned.

Late this afternoon the board issued summons for August Bruder, Trenkley & Koerber, Dallas F. Green and other leading jewelers of the city in an effort to develop if possible from whom was purchased the gold watch ex-Police Captain Dickson admits was given him as a present by a person whose name he refuses to divulge.

On Force Long Time.

Bob Dickson, as he is generally known, had been on the police force for sixteen years, and as he served most of that time around the central part of the city as a patrolman, he had a wide acquaintance. He had been a faithful officer and he made a lot of friends who expressed great regret that he should have made the mistake that cost his position.

When the Grice administration took hold about a year ago he was made a detective and served for a few weeks under William F. Borgman, who had insisted that he be appointed to the place because he regarded him as a capable officer.

When Mr. Borgman resigned Dickson was appointed captain and given the night force and held the position about a year. During his career as a police officer his record was good and the board has never had occasion to reprimand him. He has a wife and one daughter and said today that he had not determined just what he will do.

The Adventures of Mr. Peter Ruff

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Mr. Vincent Cawdor, Commission Agent

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY T SON PUBLISHING CO.

They climbed into the car, and in a few minutes were rushing away southwards.

"To-morrow night—to-morrow night it all begins!" the youth continued. "I must start with ready-made clothes. I'll get the best I can, eat the best I can, drink wine, go to the music-halls. To-morrow night——"

His speech ended in a wail—a strange, half-stifled cry which rang out with a chill, ghostly sound upon the black silence. His face was covered with a wet towel, a ghastly odor was in his nostrils, his lips refused to utter any further sound. He lay back amongst the cushions, senseless. The car slowed down.

"Get the papers, quick!" the elder man muttered, opening the youth's coat. "Here they are! Catch hold, Dick! My God! What's that?"

He shook from head to foot. The little fair man looked at him with contempt.

"A sheep bell on the moor," he said. "Are you sure you have everything?"

"Yes!" the other muttered.

They both stood up and raised the prostrate form between them. Below them were the black waters of the lake.

"Over with him!" the younger said. "Quick!"

Once more his companion shrank away.

"Listen!" he muttered, hoarsely.

They both held their breaths. From somewhere along the road behind came a faint sound like the beating of an engine.

"It's a car!" the elder man exclaimed. "Quick! Over with him!"

They lifted the body of the boy, whose lips were white and speechless now, and threw him into the water. With a great splash he disappeared. They watched for a moment. Only the ripples flowed away from the place where he had sunk. They jumped back to their seats.

"There's something close behind," the older man muttered. "Get on! Fast! Fast!"

The younger man hesitated.

"Perhaps," he said slowly, "it would be better to wait and see who it is coming up behind. Our young friend here is safe. The current has him, and the tarn is bottomless."

There was a moment's indecision—a moment which was to count for much in the lives of three men. Then the elder one's counsels prevailed. They crept away down the hill, smoothly and noiselessly. Behind them, the faint throbbing grew less and less distinct. Soon they heard it no more. They drove into the dawn and through the long day.

* * * * * * * *

Side by side on one of the big leather couches in the small smoking-room of the Milan Hotel, Mr. James P. Rounceby and his friend Mr. Richard Marnstam, sat whispering together. It was nearly two o'clock and they were alone in the room. Some of the lights had been turned out. The roar of life in the streets without had ceased. It was an uneasy hour for those whose consciences were not wholly at rest!

The two men were in evening dress—Rounceby in dinner coat and black tie, as befitted his rôle of traveling American. The glasses in front of them were only half-filled, and had remained so for the last hour. Their conversation had been nervous and spasmodic. It was obvious that they were waiting for some one.

Three o'clock struck by the little timepiece on the mantel shelf. A little exclamation of a profane nature broke from Rounceby's lips. He leaned toward his companion.

"Say," he muttered, in a rather thick undertone, "how about this fellow Vincent Cawdor? You haven't any doubts about him, I suppose? He's on the square, all right, eh?"

Marnstam wet his lips nervously.

"Cawdor's all right," he said. "I had it direct from headquarters at Paris. What are you uneasy about, eh?"

Rounceby pointed towards the clock.

"Do you see the time?" he asked.

"He said he'd be late," Marnstam answered.

Rounceby put his hand to his forehead and found it moist.

"It's been a silly game all along," he muttered. "We'd better have brought the young ass up here and jostled him!"

"Not so easy," Marnstam answered. "These young fools have a way of turning obstinate. He'd have chucked us, sure. Anyhow, he's safer where he is."

They relapsed once more into silence. A storm of rain beat upon the window. Rounceby glanced up. It was as black out there as were the waters of the silent tarn. The man shivered as the thought struck him. Marnstam, who had no nerves, twirled his gold mustache and watched his companion with wonder.

"You look as though you saw a ghost," he remarked.

"Perhaps I do!" Rounceby growled.

"You had better finish your drink, my dear fellow," Marnstam advised. "Afterwards——"

Suddenly he stiffened into attention. He laid his hand upon his companion's knee.

"Listen!" he said. "There is some one coming."

They leaned a little forward. The swinging doors were opened. A girl's musical laugh rang out from the corridor. Tall and elegant, with her black lace skirt trailing upon the floor, her left hand resting upon the shoulder of the man into whose ear she was whispering, and whom she led straight to one of the writing tables, Miss Violet Brown swept into the room. On her right, and nearest to the two men, was Mr. Vincent Cawdor.

"Now you can go and talk to your friends!" she exclaimed, lightly. "I am going to make Victor listen to me."

SUFFRAGE PLAY BARRED.

Faculty of Boston University Objects to Performance Being Given.

(Boston Herald.)

The faculty of Boston university has not only forbidden the Equal Suffrage league of Boston university to give a suffrage play at the university, but has prohibited that organization from announcing on programs for the play that the entertainment is given by the Equal Suffrage league of the university. Because of the attitude of the faculty the play is indefinitely postponed.

Doctor Huntington, president of the Boston university, said that he could not at this time make public just why the faculty did not approve of the plans of the league. "It was not deemed expedient to permit the entertainment or play at this time," he said. "This action of the faculty, however, should not be taken to indicate that the faculty is opposed to the league, for it is not. I am on the side of woman's suffrage myself, but I sympathize with the position taken by the faculty. It would not have been expedient for the faculty to have done otherwise."

The league planned to have an open meeting with music, a speaker and a suffrage play. The faculty forbade this in the university. It was then proposed to have the meeting in a hall outside the university. The faculty could not, of course, prevent such a meeting, but it did decree that the program for the outside meeting should not announce that the meeting was given by the Equal Suffrage league of the Boston university.

Miss Blackwell says in an editorial in the Woman's Journal: "Members of the league say that the majority of the faculty seem to wish to conceal from the public that there is an equal suffrage league among the Boston university students, and object to any public mention of its name. This attitude of hostility is something new.

"Miss Ethel Arnold gave an address at Boston university a year or two since on the suffrage movement in Europe and said that her audience on that occasion were the best listeners she had had in America, or words to that effect. The president of the university, Doctor Huntington, has spoken for suffrage at a legislative hearing. The chairman of the university's board of trustees, Ex-Gov. John L. Bates, recommended it in his message to the legislature.

"Last, but not least, the late Prof. Borden P. Bowne gave an address on woman suffrage at the university not long before his death and is the author of some of our most effective suffrage literature.

Boston university has always stood for liberal ideas on the woman question, though of course it has not taken any ground as a university in regard to equal suffrage. It is a matter of the more surprise and regret that the faculty should now try to deny to the students privileges which are granted by almost all other universities, and even by many women's colleges and young ladies' seminaries."

DRIVES AGONY FROM PAINFUL FEET

Ezo Makes Your Feet Feel Fine and Comfortable in 10 Minutes.

—o—

Meyer Bros. Co. is selling Ezo for the feet these days because already dozens of footsore and weary people here in Fort Wayne have learned that there is nothing in this wide world that will do as much good to the sore, tired, burning, perspiring feet as Ezo.

Rub some Ezo for the feet on today and all foot troubles will fade away. It's a refreshing and purified ointment and is wonderfully soothing and healing.

And a large jar for only 25 cents, and it's the finest ointment you ever saw for corns, bunions, callouses or any foot troubles.

Besides Ezo for the feet we also make EZO REFINED OINTMENT, an unfailing remedy for chapped hands and face; for a delightful massage; for use after shaving; for red nose and for all diseases of the skin.

The price of Ezo Refined Ointment is 50 cents a jar but a trial treatment will be sent to any address on receipt of 4 cents in stamps to cover mailing. Ezo Chemical Co., Rochester, N. Y.

DIABETES

From late figures the hope of recovery under the new emollient treatment seems to be about as follows:

In people of sixty and over results are quite uniform, probably nine-tenths recovering. While at fifty and over a large majority of all cases yield to the treatment, below fifty and approaching forty the disease gets more stubborn, and between thirty and forty the percentage is not high—probably not much over half yielding.

Under thirty the percentage is less and in children have been very low and most of those were obtained with the aid of skilled physicians forcing nutrition, with alkaline treatment to prevent formation of acetones.

The new emollient treatment is known as Fulton's Diabetic Compound. It can be had in Fort Wayne at the D. & N. Pharmacy, 624 Calhoun St.

We desire every patient to write us who is not noting the usual improvement by the third week. Always state age. Literature mailed free. Jno. J. Fulton Co., 645 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

SOCIAL INFLICTIONS.

I have seen men who neigh like a horse when you contradict them or say something they do not understand; then the overbold, who make their own invitation to your health; the persevering talker, who gives his society in large, saturating doses; the pitiers of themselves—a perilous class; the frivolous Asmordeus, who relies on you to find him in ropes of sand to twist; the monotones; in short, every stripe of absurdity;—these are social inflictions which the magistrate cannot cure or defend you from, and which must be intrusted to the restraining force of custom, and proverbs, and familiar rules of behavior impressed on young people in their school days.—Emerson.

THE COUNTY OPTION LAW.

We believe that if the county option law is repealed at this session of the legislature the democratic party of Indiana will have to answer in pain for that act. It has been taken too readily for granted that the election of a democratic majority to the legislature meant first and above all other things the repeal of this law. To the brewers and liquor interests of Indiana and the politicians in sympathy with them this may seem to be the one possible interpretation of the November results.

It is true the democratic platform contains a plank favoring a smaller unit of option—the city, town and township form of option, by which the brewers and liquor interests hope to recover many communities lost to them through county option. But we do not believe the election meant that. We believe it was a contest between the democratic and republican parties on the issues of the Aldrich tariff law and the excessive cost of living. Mr. Kern's campaign was upon that issue and he led the fight in Indiana and won it. We are of the opinion that there are scores of counties in this state where the democrats wholly ignored the option issue—counties which had been voted "dry" and in which the sentiment against saloons was and still is hostile.

The law has worked well in every county where the authorities have been mindful of their sworn obligations to uphold the laws of the state. We do not believe that there are in all of the three and half score counties that have voted "dry" a half dozen that would not vote that way again if the issue were now presented. We do not believe that in the democratic counties surrounding Allen—the counties of DeKalb, Whitley, Wells, Adams and Huntington—that another election would reverse the "dry" verdict in a single one. The majority of the people voted out the saloons and a majority of the people are in favor of keeping them out.

The democrats in the legislature will breed woe for the party if they meddle with the county option law.

INVESTIGATION IS IMPERATIVE.

Newspaper reflections on the honor and integrity of the Fort Wayne police department have gone beyond the stage of the broad hint and have become practically open charges involving officers by name in almost specific accusation.

Mayor Grice and his board of public safety have but one course and that is to make as thorough an investigation as it lies in their power to make.

The officers whose names are brought in connection with charges of accepting expensive gifts of jewelry and graft in money from keepers of disorderly houses should insist on the fullest investigation of their conduct.

The administration cannot afford to have its police department placed under such charges; the police department cannoto afford to rest under such charges and the police superiors and men certainly cannot rest under such charges and remain where they are.

If the police department is sustaining any such relation to the underworld as there is charge that it is the administration cannot act with too much promptness nor with too much vigor. If these charges are false and designed in malice to injure the administration and bring it into disrepute and shame an investigation will as readily disclose that as it will disclose that the charges are founded. It must be the prompt duty of the administration to establish the truth as respects the police department.

The board of safety has authority to compel the attendance of witnesses, and to take their testimony under oath. The inquiry should be instituted at once.

Young poet he lived in a hut on the Indiana-Illinois line near Hammond has just killed himself because he could not fathom the mysticism of Edgar Allen Poe's writings. He should have persevered. Took a lot of persons a deal longer than that he had been at it to unravel much that Edgar wrote. Some of it isn't altogehter clear yet.

The founder of the cult of the "absolute life" has been arrested in Chicago for the relations he sustained with his young girl students. That wasto be expected, of course; there is little variation from that in most affairs of the sort. One fact is almost without exception common to the freak cult or creed that has a male founder and female disciples. But it more than shocks to learn that the mothers of the girl victims were also the disciples of the Chicago rogue and that so far the evidence discloses that what went on must have been with their knowledge and approval.

Senator Fleming purposes to introduce and press a good roads law in the present legislature. The author of such a law will have for the monument to his legislative service a state of splendid highways and a greater monument or one more enduring no man could have. Good roads are both money and pleasure to the people who have them.

The first to demand complete vindication should be the policemen—superiors and subordinates. From the chief to patrolmen all grades are involved in the charges now made. There should be no delay, no hesitancy, no doubt as to what course.

Senator Lorimer can serve himself quite as well and some of his good friends a deal better by resigning. But, then, the same thing has been true of Ballinger for a year.

THE BOWSER MONORAIL.

Editor of The Sentinel:

In reply to the misrepresentation in the News in regard to the people having change of heart on Holton avenue and Hurd street, is not true. There are only two out of ninety-three who signed the first remonstrance against the monorail who have signed Mr. Bowser's petition. Ten men have signed the Bowser petition; four of these are renters. Three properties on Hurd street have two signers for each one, the owner of the property and the renter. Also two names were forged on the Bowser petition. B. M. Hutchins and Frank Spoltman, strictly against their will. The attempt was made to use these names to get others on his petition. It would not work so they drew pen lines through the names. They tell us he could only get the weak minded ones on his petition, the ones with sound mind could not be changed, and are standing firmly against the monorail as they did in the start.

The reason why the property owners are fighting this monorail is the danger of teams getting scared at the obstruction, running away and killing children or any one that might be on Holton avenue, or the adjoining streets. Then after the people have paid their good money to have the street paved, making a beautiful street as this is, to have such junk placed in the street. There was a statement in the paper some time ago in regard to beautifying the city. We ask the public if this monorail is beautifying.

PROPERTY OWNERS.

SHARP AND HIS "FEMININE SELF"

(Current Literature.)

The newly published "Memoir" of William Sharp by his wife is as remarkable a human revelation as has come from the press in a long while. Its importance may be traced to the fact that it falls in the main stream of that "psychic" current which expresses itself in Maeterlink and other writers of his school and which is taking a more and more dominating place in the life of our time. Mrs. Sharp reveals the spirit and literary genius of her husband; but she does much more than that. She makes us look at our own souls with new eyes. She shows us the strain of something that is in us all—dual personality, man and woman combined.

"Fiona Macleod" was the consciously feminine side of William Sharp. Many men have feminine sides, as many women have masculine sides, which are never consciously expressed. Otto Weininger, the young German, in his epoch making book on "Sex and Character," has called attention more clearly probably than any other writer, to the fact that no man is 100 per cent. masculine, as no woman is 100 per cent. feminine; and in this fundamental law may be found a key to unlock many of the mysteries of the human temperament. William Sharp was almost an exactly balanced man-woman. One side of him was brain, the other side emotion. During the first part of his life he expressed, in the main, the masculine elements in him. From the age of 40 onward he was possessed by the spirit of Fiona Macleod. He was vividly aware of the conflict in his nature. He even had a name, "Wilfion" (William, Fiona), which expressed his sense of the central self behind the dual self. The deepest struggle of his life was his struggle to co-ordinate these different selves.

Appreciate Others if You Expect Others to Appreciate You

Surround yourself with the comfort of a home—it need not necessarily be more luxurious than you can afford.

You owe it to your family as well as to yourself.

To meet obligations is to advance, to have no obligations to meet is to stand still.

This is our house cleaning time, odds and ends, single pieces, lines that we are not going to renew. $40,000 worth of furniture out of this $100,000 stock, is marked down for a positive clearance.

You can save 30, 40 and 50 per cent. You can save $1 or $2 or $3 or $4 on every ten, you can save $30 or $40 on each $100 if you make your selections from these cut price lines.

The salesman is instructed to point out to those who inquire, all these special lines that have been reduced.

And you want to remember that, not withstanding these cut prices, your credit is good—the same liberal terms that have made this house famous.

FAILS TO FIND HUSBAND; QUITS STAGE

MRS. THOMAS J. KENNEDY.

New York, Jan. 9.—After spending five years on the stage with companies which traveled into every part of the United States in the hope that she might find the young husband with whom she spent only a few hours in the presence of her father after their marriage on a New Year's eve, Mrs. Thomas J. Kennedy has returned from the footlights.

She announced her intention to other actresses in the dressing room of the Bronx theatre, in which she was playing. Exactly at that moment five years previously she became a bride. At no time since the midnight supper of the bridal couple, in which her father joined, has she seen or heard from her husband. Because of this she considers he is legally dead, and it is reported she will, after complying with the formalities of the law, become the wife of an actor she met in her travels.

REASON ENOUGH

"Why is it that novels are so much more popular with women than with us?"

"In a novel the fellow invariably asks the girl to be his wife!"

At the City band concert here January 20 the great trombone player, Frederick N. Innes, will appear. Miss Grace Hill, Sam H. Burdette and Prof. Otto Schmidt are big cards.

The Maennerchor society of Emanuel's Lutheran church last evening elected the following officers: Gottlieb Hitzeman, president; H. Schwartz, vice president; Henry Suelhoff, secretary; H. Bust, treasurer; Prof. Lindeman, leader.

S. R. Alden acted as interpreter in the trial of a case between French people in the circuit court yesterday, and did so with much fluency. Mr. Alden is quite a linguist and besides English and German, speaks French, Spanish and two other languages correctly.

The Uniform rank, Catholic Knights of America, have elected the following officers: Captain, John Houser; first lieutenant, Dennis Monahan; second lieutenant, Fred Graffe; senior warden, John B. Monning; junior warden, John Schiefer; color bearer, Otto Nichter; sword bearers, John Krock and Henry Allgeier.

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Bond and Mr. William H. Watt was solemnized at Trinity Episcopal church Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Rev. Webbe performing the ceremony. The church was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the friends and invited guests to witness the ceremony. The happy couple left on the midnight train to spend a short season at Chicago, after which they will be at home to their many friends at "Walnut Place."

A MARAT PRESCRIPTION.

Whether Marat of the Terror was a veterinary surgeon or a fashionable physician is a point which historians have earnestly debated. Some light is thrown upon it by the memoirs, just published, of the papal envoy of the period, who was one of his patients, and reports as follows:

"He prescribed for me some medicine which would have killed me is the celebrated chemist of the Rue Jacob had been willing to give it to me. 'I see well enough,' he said, 'this is no medicine for you; it is medicine for a horse. I recognize the doctor's signature; he is mad.' Apparently Marat had mistaken me for one of his patients at the stable at which he was a physician." — Westminster Gazette, London.

ABLY ADVOCATES THE EDDY CREED

W. D. McCrackan Lectures on Christian Science at the Majestic.

AUDIENCE IS LARGE

The theme of the lecture of W. D. McCrackan, M. A., C. S. B., of Boston, one of the prominent national lecturers on Christian Science, at the Majestic theater Sunday afternoon, was "Christian Science, a Religion of Progress." The audience was a large one and the lecture an able discussion of the principles of Christian Science, was listened to with interest.

Mrs. Guildlin's Address.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. O. N. Guildlin, one of the prominent club women of the city, who spoke as follows:

Fellow Citizens: When I was asked to introduce the speaker this afternoon the question came to me, "What has Christian Science meant to me?" Since it has come into my life my greatest help has been that it has anabled me to live on an entirely different basis. The next greatest help has been that it has straightened out many of my theological conceptions. Immanuel Kant says something like this: "Man has many delusions. He can only remove those delusions as he gains more knowledge, and then the delusions fall away." So it has seemed to me; that one delusion after another has gone down. In the first place I am grateful that Mrs. Eddy saw fit to call this "Christian Science." Music has its science; arithmetic has its science. We can never evade this science and arrive at correct conclusions. We can never evade the science of life. It will not permit us to do an injustice to any one else and arrive at the science of living. If in the solitude of our home life we meditate and study on these problems until we realize the Divine Principle, then can we realize the solution. As we look at the world's standard of morality, the ordinary concept of man, we are liable to be deluded. Last summer I was riding along for some distance up in Canada, watching the trees. I was looking for a perfect specimen. I saw an overcrowded condition: not one three that apparently realized the God concept of a tree. Yet we all know how magnificent a tree is when it reaches its full growth. And so I realized that man did not realize his spiritual concept. The licentiousness of the nation reveals the worldly concept of man, and I turned in eternal gratitude to Mrs. Eddy, since she had raised my concept to a more spiritual standard; to realize that even if all failed, yet that standard remained true, above the average concept which we see realized. Bearing this concept eternally in mind gives us something to work towards, and we begin to realize that God's creation is spiritual; it is harmonious, it is eternal. If we do not see this wonderful majesty of being it is because something is wrong in us, and the greatest work of our lives is, after all, self-regeneration—that evolution that starts for perfection. I could go on enumerating many things which have come to my consciousness through the study of Christian Science, but you have here a much better exponent. We are grateful to Mrs. Eddy for establishing this Christian Science board of lectureship, so that occasionally we can have them come into our midst and illumine us with their greater spiritual understanding. I have the pleasure of introducing to you Mr. McCrackan, of the Christian Scieice board of lectureship, of Boston.

Mr. McCrackan's Lecture.

Mr. McCrackan was warmly greeted by the audience and spoke in part as follows:

The message of Christian Science is simple and straightforward and responds to a universal need. It is not easily treated as an academic theme, nor is it, strictly speaking, a debatable question, because it provides the proofs of its own correctness, day by day and hour by hour, and these proofs are final and convincing. Christian Science does more than preach or promise, it fulfills. While it arouses the noblest aspirations and expectations of mankind, it also justifies its teachings by definite results. Like the good Samaritan, it comes to those who have fallen among thieves, whom false concepts have robbed of health and happiness, whom material methods have passed by on the other side, and pours into their wounds the oil and wine of gladness and inspiration, takes them to the inn of shelter, and leaves with them the coin of priceless value which will insure their complete recovery and, in time, their complete salvation.

Religion of Progress.

This is an age of practical achievement, and Christian Science is in thorough accord with the demands made for proofs. It lives and grows in favor with the needy of the earth by reason of its fruits. Christian Science makes no claim which it cannot substantiate and so, in this day of advance in every department of human activity, it is demonstrating its right to be known as the religion of progress.

Not that God, who constitutes the basis, foundation and principle of all true religion, ever changes or progresses; not that the teachings of Jesus the Christ, the Founder of Christianity, need to be revised or the bible rewritten. We read in the Scriptures that with God there is neither variableness nor shadow of turning; we also believe that the precepts and warnings of Jesus can never become antiquated, and that the bible of our fathers, the great treasure-house of Christendom, when spiritually interpreted by Christian Science suffices for our daily needs. The thread of gold which gleams throughout the fabric of the bible will shine forth forever to be apprehended by the receptive thought everywhere.

So it is not a new bible which Christian Science contemplates, but one and the same bible, explained in a spiritually progressive manner. It is not a new God which it proclaims, but the only true God, our Father which is in heaven. It makes no attempt at an improved Christ, for there is but one Christ, who is in the bosom of the Father, perfect, eternal and indestructible. Christian Science is progressive, and makes an advance in religion because it throws the strong light of Science upon the nature and attributes of Deity, upon the teachings and works of the Christ, and because it picks out from the bible's make-up the essential imperishable import of its spiritual message.

Christian Science calls upon mankind for a frank and fearless revision of its own beliefs above the unchanging God, His man and His universe. This age, which is not afraid to fly in the face of the sun on filmy wings, is asked to display the necessary courage to pass in review the things which pertain to its own salvation from false gods. Why should not right and just views concerning God and His universe be capable of more precise statement? Why should it be thought a thing unreasonable with any one that God can become better understood by the average man than has been the case in the past? Why should not the understanding of how to grow in grace, how to deepen and broaden one's spiritual concepts, progress according to law. And why should not this knowledge concerning the fountainhead of all knowledge, the Giver of all good gifts, the absolute eternal Principle of all Life, in whom we live, and move, and have our being—why should not this knowledge constitute demonstrable science?

Christian Scientists believe that it does; that Jesus pointed out the only true, final and real knowledge when he said, "And this is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

The Real Man.

If God is Spirit, then the real man of His creation, who is made in His image and likeness, and, therefore, partakes of His nature, must be spiritual, i. e., must express and manifest Spirit. The real man's Life must be Spirit, his faculties must be spiritual. Furthermore, as the image and likeness of God, the real man must be complete, happy, wholesome, and healthy. He cannot deny his parentage nor bring discredit upon his ancestry. He must be eternal and indestructible now, the ideal man, the son of God.

But this conclusion, derived from the Word of God, is found to be at variance with the testimony of material sense. It does not agree with the experience of mortal man from the cradle to the grave, for the experience of mortal man is one of sin, sickness, and death, not of undimmed joy and eternal life. Here is a discrepancy, and Christian Science provides the necessary explanation by showing that mortal, material man, the sport of circumstance, the prey of discord and the victim of death, is not the real man of God's creation, declared in the bible to be the image and likeness of God.

Christian Science teaches that mortal man is a false version of the true man, a counterfeit attempting to resembl the true, but, nevertheless, easily detected because of his unlikeness to God, who is Spirit. God is not the author of mortal, material man, nor of mortal man's failures, limitations, and losses, of his final breakdown and his death sentence. God is not responsible for evil in any of its forms. He did not create it, since it could never lodge in His thought for an instant, else He were not wholly good and the principle governing the universe were not wholly reliable.

Evil has no origin in Spirit, no entity nor reality of God's making, and no eternity, but is always a false concept, assailing the mind of mortal man until such time as its lying nature is laid bare and its futile, transitory pretenses cease to frighten. Evil has no standing before God. Those who dwell "in the secret place of the most High" need not fear its empty threats, but, asserting their divine rights, may rise, in the words of the apostle Paul, "in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

Thus it is that the two statements of the bible, namely, that God is Love, and God is Spirit, find their reconciliation in Science. The doubts which have ever assailed suffering humanity concerning the goodness of God are dissipated. Though physical sense, left to its own devices, rises in opposition to the most High, and tries to give the impression that God is cruel and willingly afflicts His defenseless children, Christian Science, elucidating the scriptures, proves that evil is not of God's creation or permission. Good and good only proceeds from the Giver of every good gift, and all assertions to the contrary are due to ignorance or blindness of heart. John's statement that God is Love lives on forever side by side with Jesus' profound explanation that God is Spirit.

There is much comfort to struggling humanity in the conviction that God does not authorize the miseries of our earthly experience. This conviction is the first step toward the realization that these very miseries, lacking divine sanction, cannot have any real entity or existence, and must perforce have a fictitious origin and an unreal nature. God becomes fully reinstated in human affections at the same time that the so-called law of sin and death loses its supposed hold upon human affairs.

Material Sense.

But we will not deceive ourselves in regard to the opinion of the world and of the natural man or mortal man concerning God, His Christ and His creation. Paul writes in his first epistle to the Corinthians: "For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God," and again, in the same epistle, "But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."

The "natural man," or mortal, material man, depends upon the testimony of the physical senses for his information. They are his witnesses. They are the feelers which he puts forth into the unknown, and according as they report so he acts or counteracts. Their testimony constitutes "the wisdom of this world." But Paul states in the above quoted texts that "the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God" and that "the things of the Spirit of God" "are foolishness" unto the "natural man." Here then is an unreconcilable situation. God rejects "the wisdom of this world" upon which the natural man relies for the basis of his information, and the natural man rejects "the things of the Spirit of God" because he cannot understand them. What shall the outcome be? One or the other must yield, and no Christian can doubt the issue for an instant. God's word must prevail. If the testimony of the physical senses conflicts with the proper discernment of "the things of the Spirit of God," then this physical testimony must be set aside as untrustworthy, or false. Spirit must be supreme over matter. Truth over error. Life over death, Love over fear and hate. God must rule in His own universe, and God is spirit, not matter.

It is well to kno what immutable Truth does not depend upon what our physical senses report. No one who has looked into the peculiar habits of these senses has noticed their strange perversity and their readiness to mislead even the natural, material man, would wish to rely upon their testimony concerning the real man of God's creation. Science, in order to be worthy of the name, must rest upon unimpeachable evidence. The knowledge of that which is unvarying and indestructible must itself be founded upon absolutely reliable information, but knowledge derived from the physical senses does not fulfil this requirement.

Mrs. Eddy, in her work "Rudimental Divine Science," defines Christian Science "as the law of God, the law of good, interpreting and demonstrating the divine Principle and rule of universal harmony" (p. 1). As the student learns more about the nature of God through spiritual sense, the beneficent law of God grows in clearness and he is able to reject the discordant testimony of material sense. Then comes the demonstration or proof of harmony as normal and natural. He who follows the leadings of Christian Science not only learns the letter of its teachings, but also proves their correctness by saving the sinner, comforting the sorrowing, and healing the sick. Christian Science thus becomes a daily help for daily needs, the Comforter which leadeth into all truth, ever available at all times and under all circumstances.

It will hardly be necessary here to insist upon the fact that religion should save the sinner. Whatever may be the doctrines which divide the various branches of Christendom, all are agreed at least upon this point, that it is the natural work of religion, the business of Christianity, to save the sinner. But there is no such agreement regarding the sick. Jesus healed the sick, his disciples and apostles healed the sick, the early Christians for some three hundred years after the crucifixion healed the sick, by spiritual means; but during the intervening centuries the world has more and more relegated the healing of the sick to a special profession, using material means.

Since Mrs. Eddy's discovery of Christian Science the healing of Jesus' time has been reinstated, in accordance with his unmistakable injunction to his followers, and today hundreds of thousands of men, women and children in all portions of the globe rise to bless the good and brave woman to whom they owe health and happiness.

It is difficult to speak in moderate praise of one who is performing so stupendous a service for mankind. One can only rejoice that a great and growing volume of gratitude is finding its way to her from those who, through her teachings, have been delivered from pain and sorrow, from the fear of torment and the despair of godlessness. Special circumstances seem to have fitted Mrs. Eddy from her youth for the mission of mercy to which God called her. Born of New England parentage, in the state of New Hampshire, she grew up in an atmosphere of wholesome freedom and received an exceptionally comprehensive education, both secular and religious. As a woman of progressive and advanced ideas, she investigated fearlessly the questions which came before the public. Especially was she interested in the healing art, and her quick recovery from the result of an accident, through the revelation of the spiritual meaning of the Bible, led to her discovery of Christian Science in 1866.

In 1875 followed the publication of her epoch-making work, the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," now widely distributed among the civilized nations of the earth. This book is proving itself to be a potent factor in the elevation of the human race, and is literally making history by remodeling the lives and careers of multitudes. Mrs. Eddy has been the active leader of the Christian Science movement from its inception, and her writings continue to mold its growth and development along the lines of the greatest usefulness to mankind. The reward of the good and faithful servant is hers, and this is a source of gratification to every fair-minded person.

Mrs. J. W. Schnaufer, of 201 Masterson avenue, gave a dinner party last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Palmer, who with their son, Eugene, started today for Cuba to be gone until the first of April. Covers were laid for twenty and the table was prettily appointed. Mrs. O. P. Peterson and Mrs. Albert Freistroffer assisted the hostess in serving a delicious menu.

The Au Revoir club held its bimonthly meeting on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Dougherty, of Fairfield avenue. Miss Alice McCarty was the hostess. The time was spent enjoying music and games. A male quartet, consisting of Messrs. Bidwell, Sharker, Miller and Dougherty, sang several selections. Miss Lesta Freisinger and Miss May Barry rendered a duet. Miss Freisinger and F. W. Zahrt won prizes in a contest. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening.

A pretty surprise was arranged by Mrs. Schafer for her daughter, Vera, in celebration of her eighth birthday anniversary. Eight small girls were invited to this good time and all enjoyed the games, the big pink frosted cake with its pink candles and the fine supper. Margaret Wiegman and Josephine Meeker won prizes in pinning on the donkey's tail; Clara Messing and Celeste Schafer won the prizes in a peanut hunt. The children present were Clara Messing, Velma Stoeppelworth, Celesta Schafer, Esther Messing, Margaret Wiegman, Josephine Meeker and Masters Maurice and Clarence Schafer.

The Misses Ivy and Eva Schlid entertained on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Ethel Knox, whose marriage to William Nessel will take place this month. Miss Josie Lynch won the prize in a contest and then presented it to the coming bride. A shower of useful articles was also presented Miss Knox. A tempting supper was served in the diningroom and the guests who took part in the pleasures of the evening were, besides Miss Knox, Miss Ethel King, Florence Littlejohn, Clara McQuiston, Julia and Irma Kashaum, Mause Ensminger, Clara Imma, Jaunita Snowberger and Mrs. Merle Ivins.

Miss Ruth Keenan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Keenan, celebrated her thirteenth birthday anniversary on Saturday afternoon by entertaining a company of her young friends at the Anthony hotel, of which her father is the proprietor. The children invited to Miss Ruth's party were playmates and school friends. They had a fine time, unusual in some ways, because it was held in so large a place, where there was a big hall to dance in and a regular orchestra to play for them when they wanted to dance. Supper was served in a private diningroom and was as beautiful to look at as it was delicious to eat. Everything was decorated in red, with a frosted cake as the handsomest and most attractive thing on the table. On top of the cake in letters were the word Scranton, that being the name of Miss Ruth's birthplace, and Fort Wayne, beside the year, dates of birth and party celebration. There were many red carnations for making the table pretty and one at each plate for the guests. Candles under red beaded shades further helped to decorate. Fancy boxes in the shape of Japanese houses were filled with candy and the guests took them home for souvenirs. The waiters of the hotel served the children and the head waiter cut the birthday cake. Mrs. Keenan was assisted in seeing that the children enjoyed the afternoon by Mrs. Dan Kane, Miss Mary Fanning, and the Misses Hammond. The guests were Marie Centlivre, Marlowe Dickson, Esther and Catherine Golden, Esther Centlivre, Rosalie Weil, Elva Ankenbruck, Cecelia Baker, Jane McCarthy, Beatrice Bates, Ruth Luegring, Dorothy Astrum, Catherine Snyder, Gladys Young, Mary Catherine Carroll and little Grace Keenan.

School Art Exhibit on Tour.

The exhibit of work in drawing from all grades in the public schools that was shown in the public library building several months ago, started today on an exhibition tour of a number of large cities of the country. F. O. Perkins, of New York city, has the exhibit in charge and it will be shown in connection with drawing exhibits from the Chicago Art institute, Pratt institute, Boston Art school and the Philadelphia School for Applied Design, thus making the fact that this city has the only exhibit of public school work in the list, one of which everybody may well be proud. There is shown at the public library this week the exhibit from Pratt institute.

Lecture at Normal School.

Dr. M. A. Mason will give a lecture on the "Care of Children's Teeth," under the auspices of the Normal school, in the Lakeside school building on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The lecture is open to the public, the design being educational only, and not only parents of pupils of the school, but others interested are invited to attend.

Woman's League Lecture.

The next entertainment of the Woman's league lecture course will be held next Friday evening at the High school auditorium, when Jacob A. Riis, of New York, will lecture on "My Neighbor." The season tickets announce the subject as a different one, but Mr. Riis has made a change in his program of work for the season and the one on Roosevelt is omitted.

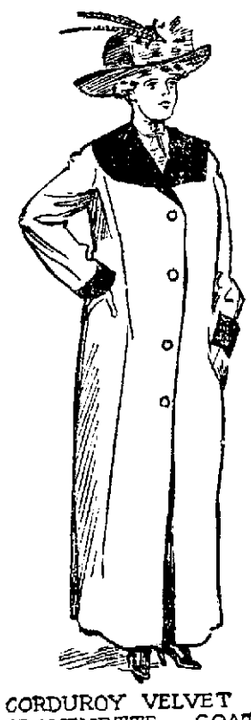
SMART THINGS FOR OUTDOOR WEAR IN COLD WEATHER.

FUR LINED COAT - BEAUTY

New York, Jan. 9.—To be suitably gowned for all occasions has become to the up to date woman not a mere fad, but a sort of "near" religion. From her hat to her shoes she feels the importance of being as correctly smart in appearance when she starts for her daily spin as the appointments of her automobile demand.

One specially pretty coat and one that is quite popular is the cravenetted brown corduroy velvet raincoat. It has black satin collar and cuffs that may be unbuttoned and folded away in the pocket in a severe storm and afterward replaced as fresh as new. The coat sweater with the adjustable collar is worn under the lighter weight material garments, such as the diagonal coats with bishop sleeves and the loose capes with velvet trimmings.



CORDUROY VELVET CRAVENETTE COAT. ENGLISH TWEED HAT

WHITE SWEATER COAT WORSTED CAP

One of the season's best novelties is the fur lined automobile suit, so called. It is cut with a loose three-quarter coat with fur lining and the skirt is a plain model with plaid inner lining. The coat buttons close to the throat and there is nothing about the suit that can look mussed up or untidy at the journey's end.

The round fur hat known as the "Beauty" has a rolling brim, is guiltless of trimming (unless madame wishes to pin a bunch of fresh violets upon it daily) and is most popular and usually becoming. The crochet wool and chenille caps are a passing fad, and, while they seem to take, their inexpensive materials and their homemade possibilities will be their "finish," as far as the devotees of fashion are concerned.

CORRECT HANGINGS FOR WINDOWS IN LARGE FORMAL ROOMS

Heavy Draperies and Sheer Curtains of Lace or Net Arranged on Lines That Harmonize With the Shape of the Rooms Make Attractive Furnishings.

There is just as much art in the hanging and draping of window curtains as there is in selection of materials to be used. For when the lines of the panes are long, and the frame is broad, treatment should be wholly different from that given to a cottage window, or the effect will be grotesque.

In the latter there must be dainty pleats and twists, while the former must be formal.

For a formal drawing room, such as is usual in a town house, draperies should be heavy, and they must hang straight to the floor. Whatever of lightness is introduced comes in the under set, which should be of lace or net.

If thin draperies are ruffled at the edges they may be looped back. To permit them to hang straight would give an unfinished appearance. But unless the ruffles are decidedly slant, the "pull backs" must be placed high for grace. When the under curtains are thin they should be, as a rule, short, not coming below the sill. When they do hang to the floor, the pull-back must be low, just above the sill itself. When short, and with full ruffles, the pull should be four or five inches above the top line of the bottom sash. The proportion is better maintained at such an angle.

If short curtains, by which is meant those coming only to, or just below the sills, are employed, and they are ruffled, the edges must be twice as full as usual, if they are to have grace. Less than that appears scant. In looping them back, the upper edge is to be pulled out a little, so that instead of hanging back in a sharp angle they will scallop, as it were.

Such draperies are never to have any more stiffening than is required to give them a little body.

DRY SHAMPOO.

Cornmeal, perfumed with orris root, powdered, makes a dry shampoo powder which many persons like. It must be scattered through the hair near, but not on, the head and brushed out, the theory being that dust and grease come with it.

WASHING VEILS.

Tulle veils that have become limp may be renovated by pressing them with a warm iron, having first placed a handkerchief between the iron and the tulle. Lace veils and scarfs should be soaked in a strong lather of white soap and soft water and allowed to simmer gently in a saucepan over a fire for about twenty minutes.

The veils should be lifted out and squeezed tightly, but not rubbed, then rinsed out in cold water. The second lot of water should be faintly tinged with blue and have in it a small quantity of hot starch. Clear the veils of any particles of starch by clapping well between the hands; then pin on a clean white cloth and allow to dry. In this manner they will look as fresh and clean as when new, and they may be washed any number of times. Veils should always be ironed with a handkerchief or piece of fine linen between as they are much better and wear longer if they do not come in direct contact with the iron.

Pepper Pot.

Wash clean three pounds of tripe, half honeycomb and half plain. Put into the soup kettle with a knuckle of veal and four quarts of cold water. Simmer slowly all day, replenishing the water as it evaporates. Strain off the soup and set aside until next day. Remove the fat and put the jellied stock on the fire with one onion, a bunch of sweet herbs, two stalks of celery, six cloves and a teaspoonful of peppercorns; simmer for two hours and rinse the seasonings. Add the tripe cut into dice and the veal chopped fine, two medium sized potatoes cut into dice and parboiled, and one tablespoonful of parsley. Simmer for half an hour, thicken with two tablespoonfuls of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour rubbed together to a paste, and salt and pepper to taste. Chop fine one-quarter of a pound of suet, measure it and take twice as much flour; add one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and just enough ice-water to moisten. Make up into dumplings the size of a marble, drop into the boiling soup, cover, simmer for fifteen minutes and serve.

Dark Steamed Pudding.

One cupful of finely chopped beef suet, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of cold water, two cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking soda, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of ground cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ground cloves. Sift all the dry ingredients together and mix thoroughly. Steam three hours and serve with a hard sauce flavored with vanilla.

DRY SHAMPOO.

Cornmeal, perfumed with orris root, powdered, makes a dry shampoo powder which many persons like. It must be scattered through the hair near, but not on, the head and brushed out, the theory being that dust and grease come with it.

CORSET COVER OR WAIST LINING.

BY MRS. JANE FORD.

No. 751

8 SIZES 32 TO 46 BUST

Every woman who does her own sewing should possess a pattern of the garment pictured here, because this design can be used for a dress lining, for a slip or for a corset cover.

When employed for the latter garment the neck can be left high or shaped by cutting the pattern along any one of the rows of perforations indicated in the drawings by dotted lines.

At the waist line perforations are arranged in a similar way, so the goods can be shaped accordingly.

The desirable pattern may be bought in eight sizes that will fit any woman whose bust measure is between thirty-two and forty-six inches.

To copy it in the medium sizes requires about three and three-quarters yards of goods twenty-seven inches wide or two and one-eighth yards thirty-six inches in width.

Care must be taken when cutting such a garment to follow accurately the lines of the pattern, or the fit will not be satisfactory. Also the notches must be marked and the various parts basted together with the corresponding notches opposite. To fit the waist try it on with the seams on the right side and take the goods up or let it out where necessary. These alterations should be pinned while the garment is on the figure and then basted before the seams are stitched.

In the majority of cases French seams will be the desired finish for seams. In order to make these and to have the waist a comfortable fit, the stitching must be made one-eighth of an inch outside of the line of basting. This allows for turning the goods and for the second row of stitching.

If the garment is a corset cover, the neck and armholes may be finished with a row of narrow insertion and edging. At the waist line a strip of beading or a narrow binding will complete the garment.

A feature of this method is the closing at either the center front or back.

A HINT ABOUT CURTAINS.

Every housekeeper who has tried making her own sash curtains has probably been disappointed with the result, for though accurate measurements may have been made, when the curtains are hung they invariably prove either too short or sag in places.

A plan which I have tried with success is to baste a deep hem at the lower edge of the curtains, then hang them and allow them to remain in position until they have sagged or dragged. Then the basting threads should be taken out and the hem set in permanently.

Order one if not both Puritana Mush or Puritana Syrup.

USE ASBESTOS MATS.

Prevention is better than cure. If housekeepers would use the asbestos mats fewer walls on account of ruined tables would be heard.

One can buy asbestos mats in every size, from a tumbler mat five inches in diameter to a platter mat measuring nine by fourteen inches. The former costs ten cents, the latter costs forty-two cents. A saucer mat is seven inches in diameter and may be bought for fourteen cents.

Plate mats come in nine and ten-inch sizes respectively and cost eighteen and twenty cents each.

The platter mats are oval in shape and come in three graduated sizes, price twenty cents, thirty-six cents and forty-two cents respectively.

In the series with Wolf & Dessauers the White Fruit House Five dropped one game and this gave the club a hook-up for first place with the Hof Braus in Brunswick league No. 1.

The Walkovers have dropped out of the league and it is likely that an eight-club organization will finish the season under a new schedule. The club had one or two good bowlers but could not muster a force to keep in the running. All season the Fox Brothers have been shot to pieces and it is probable they will be dropped and this will make the league a better one.

In the individual averages Ed Harkenrider is leading, although he has not bowled for a couple of weeks. He has a bad ankle and will get in the game this week. Reynolds and Farnan are tie for second place with "Ot" Sander, Hills and Hendelman within striking distance of the top. The averages are as follows:

BIG BLACK SAYS WILL MEET JEFF

Wants Champion's End of Purse in Event of Another Battle.

TIRES OF THE TALK

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 9.—Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, showed little concern when told of the stories circulated by Barney Oldfield, the automobile racer, to the effect that Jeffries was doped when he fought at Reno. According to Oldfield, Jeffries is as good as ever and the speed king asserted in a recent interview that he would be willing to wager a small fortune that Jeffries can defeat the present champion.

"I'll give Jeffries a return match any time he wants it," said Johnson. "If Oldfield believes Jeffries is as good as ever just let him get some club to hang up a suitable purse and I will sign the articles. I will not ask anything unreasonable except that I will demand a champion's end of the money. I am getting tired of these stories about Jeffries being doped and if he thinks he is a better man than I am I am willing to sign up for another match and show the world that Jack Johnson is a real champion."

Jack indicated by the tone of his speech that he wants to fight in the near future. He does not fear any man in the world, and believes he rules supreme in his class. To bear out this statement he cited the fact that none of the promoters have been willing to hang up a suitable purse to match him with any of the present day heavyweights.

JONES WANTS THE MONEY.

Says He Must Have His Price for Wolgast.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 9.—Tom Jones, manager of Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast, stopped over between trains en route from Cadillac to Chicago, where he was called for a meeting with Owen Moran and his manager to talk over terms for a match between Wolgast and Moran for the lightweight championship of the world some time within the next four months.

"The Wolgast-Memsic match is as good as settled, except that I have named March 17 instead of February 22 because I was fearful that the earlier date might be too soon for the champion. The men will meet at 133 pounds ringside and I will be a greatly disappointed man if Wolgast does not end the bout inside the twenty-round limit, although Memsic is a rugged, game and dangerous man at any weight he can make and be strong.

"All that is necessary for a match to be closed between Wolgast and Moran so far as I am concerned is for some club to make an offer of $12,500 for the champion's end which is $1,500 less than Nelson demanded for his end regardless of the result when Wolgast beat him and came into possession of the championship."

ST. MARY'S TEAM WON.

Local Squad Took Game From the South Bend Five.

St. Mary's Athletic club basketball five easily defeated the South Bend team at Saengerbund hall Saturday night by a score of twenty-nine to fourteen. Although the visitors were billed as an exceptionally fast aggregation the home team had little trouble holding the lead during the entire game. The line-up:

St. Mary's.		South Bend.
Berkmeyer	R. F.	Currise
Pell	L. F.	Murphy
Haffner	C.	Szadzinski
Allgeier	R. G.	Guthrie-Shubert
Jockel	L. G.	Mehaldi

Field goals—Berkmeyer, 6; Pell, 3; Haffner, 3; Currise, 2; Szadzinski, 2; St. Mary's awarded two points.

In the preliminary the St. Mary's Apaches defeated the Turners by a score of 17 to 4.

CONCORDIA WINS.

In the game against the Wabash basketball team Concordia got away in the lead and held it all the way, winning by a score of 30 to 19. The line-up:

Wabash.		Concordia.
Miller	R. F.	Benz
I. Simon-A. Simon	L. F.	Schmidt
I. Simon-Carpenter	C.	Bode-Acker
Varnelle	L. G.	Federson
McPike	R. G.	Diederich

Field goals—Benz, 5; Schmidt, 5; Dode, 3; Miller, 2; Varnelle, 5; Simon, 1.

AN OCULIST'S DISCOVERY.

A new discovery with regard to the phenomena of the sense of sight has been announced by Dr. F. W. Edridge-Green, an eminent English authority in visual research. He has found by an interesting series of experiments and tests that the process of vision is not the simple transmission by the optic nerve to the brain of objects photographed upon the retina.

The new discovery in non-technical language amounts to this: In front of the retina there is a small chamber or sac of clear liquid which is in constant motion of currents or eddies. Dr. Green finds that this liquid itself contains distinct perceptive nerve power which plays an important part in conveying impressions to the brain.

In other words, this wonderful fluid contains liquid nerves, so to speak, which transmit to the understanding a considerable part of the impression it receives of color, form, etc.—New York Sun.

OLDFIELD TURNS SPOT LIGHT ON BIG FELLOWS

TWO DOUBLES IN FIRST WON GAME

White Fruit House Got Bad Start But Finished in Form.

WALKOVERS FORFEIT

Knipple and Harry Jackson doubled in the opening game of the series between the Wolf & Dessauers and the White Fruit House five and kept the latter out of the lead in the First Brunswick league as the entire list was needed to pass the Hof Braus.

After a bad start the Fruit House crowd got together and rolled two good games, Frank Hills leading with a score of 253, which gave him high individual score and average. Reynolds rolled 206, Farnan got 203 and after a bad fumble in the first round Boland came strong at the close and rolled 208. The scores follow:

WALKOVERS FORFEIT THREE.

Centlivres Bowl for Averages in Postponed Series.

The Centlivres got three easy games by reason of the determination of the Walkovers to retire from the league as the series, postponed from last week, was a gift and the men rolled for average.

Doyle rolled the high score with 206 in the first game, but Fred Bergloff got into the pins in the first and third and led in the average. The scores follow:

Herr Neiderhauser, the sculptor, at the instance of the Geneva director of police took a plaster imprint of the face of Luccheni, the murder of the Empress Elizabeth, after his suicide, and a portion of the murderer's hair was found to have adhered to the plaster. The hair came into the possession of some young women in Geneva in a mysterious manner, and large sums of money have been offered for it. It is believed in Switzerland that a murderer's hair brings luck. One young woman took her "luck" to a jeweler and had it placed in a golden locket.—London Evening Standard.

During the period from 1810 to 1842 there were 413 children to each one hundred marriages of the graduates of Yale university, from 1842 to 1860 the children to one hundred marriages were 333, and from 1860 to 1878 the number of children to the hundred marriages dropped to 265. It is said that the number of children to Harvard marriages has also steadily decreased.

By winning a postponed series during last week the Meyer Brothers five climbed into the lead in the Second Brunswick league and holds the band wagon position by a couple of game. The El Venzos are second with the Fort Wayne Printing company and the Cadillacs in a tie for third.

Brooks is leading in individual work, but is only a point ahead of Rapp who is holding his own and looks like a contender for first honors in the organization. Vollmer improved his standing a bit and he and Lentz are tied for third in the individual averages. The record is as follows:

HUGGINS WAITED FOR 116 PASSES

Most Patient Man in the National League at the Home Plate.

EVERS WAS SECOND

Miller Huggins, of the St. Louis Nationals, was the most patient man in the organization last season, as he waited out 116 bases on balls and got the best of Johnny Evers, of the Cubs, by eight. Records just issued from National league headquarters show that the Cardinals were good waiters and that their men were given 655 bases on balls. New York led with 652.

Although Bob Beacher made a grand showing with the Cincinnati club there is only one man in the league that beregol offener than the old Dayton outfielder and if Bobert had not collided with a fence toward the fag end of the season and been put out of the game for several weeks he might have beaten out Hummel who fanned 81 times to 75 for the red leg speeder.

Dolly Starke made a pretty fair record for striking out with nineteen whiffs in the thirty games that he played with the Brooklyn club. Sherwood Magee, the leading slugger, struck out only thirty-six times in 154 games and he improved his batting record for the year by walking, as he was sent down to first ninety-four times during the season on bases on balls.

George Paskert struck out sixty times and was passed seventy, and Runt Walsh didn't do so bad with the Quakers, as he got twenty-five bases on balls in sixty-seven games and struck out thirty-eight times.

Johnny Evers holds the lowest mark for strike-outs, as in the 125 games he played for the Cubs he was set down only eighteen times. The mighty Hans Wagner struck out forty-seven times in 150 games and was passed fifty-nine times.

Tidbits of Sporting News

Cleveland had chances to get Bush, Baker and Livingston, and passed them all up. All of them would look pretty sweet on the Cleveland team right now.

Ty Cobb made a home run the first time he faced a pitcher in Cuba during the recent trip, but he missed connection with everything that was pitched to him after that.

Manager Hal Chase of the Yankees says he will work his pitchers in their turn next summer. He does not believe in working certain ones against certain teams.

Joe McGlantty thinks Richmond, Va., would be a good city to come into the Eastern league circuit. If Montreal is ever dropped the old Giant star favors taking in the Virginia capital.

President Russell, the new head of the Boston Nationals, claims to have been the original discoverer of Jake Beckley. This is the first intimation given the people that the new magnate is between 115 and 125 years old.

"If the magnates are so anxious to put their players under sobriety contracts," remarks Howard Camaltz, "why don't they set a good example by climbing on the water wagon at their annual meetings?"

Fred Jacklitsch, the catcher released to the Rochester club by the Phillies, has been in the National league many years. He was one of the mainstays of the Superbas for many seasons before going to Philadelphia.

Former President Hedges of the Browns says the stockholders in his club have received a dividend every year, although he has had more second division teams than first all the time he was at the head of the club.

Charley Murphy's letter of welcome to Fred Tenney on returning to the National league was just the kind of cheer the veteran needed. He has been turning things over at a lively rate since he started on his big job.

The appointment of Ed Smith as manager of the South Bend team is about the most popular move the management has made in many moons. He lives at South Bend, has always been faithful and knows the Central league well enough to give the town a good ball team.

The popular subscription plan is booming down at Zanesville and the hustling committee has over $5,000 in sight. This was all subscribed within a week and the work is not yet fully started. Montgomery will probably be offered the management of the club.

Barney Dreyfuss has been after Pitcher Walter Nagle for two years and has finally landed him. He tried to land him again by the draft last fall, but failed, and now he has come across with sufficient coin to make Owner Henry Barry of the Los Angeles team let go of him.

Cy Young, Hughey Duffey, Connie Mack, Jake Beckley, Jimmy McAleer, Dave Cross, Patsy Donovan, Arthur Irwin, Billy Hamilton, Jesse Burkett, "Deacon" McGuire, Hughey Jennings and Tom Daly, who were active as players twenty years ago, will be in the game again next season.

GOLD HUNTER IS GOING TO FAMILY

CARLOS GOLDICK

MAX GOLDICK

New York, Jan. 9.—On his way back to Adelaide, Australia, to see his wife, who he had not seen in nearly nine years, and the nine-yea-old son, Max, whom he remembers only as a baby in arms, Carlos Goldick, general manager of the Aartagena Anexas Copper mines at Zecatecas, Mexico, arrived here from Galveston.

Dissatisfied with the prospects for fortune making in Australia, where he and his wife, natives of Germany, had gone soon after their marriage, Mr. Goldick set forth alone to seek his fortune in other fields. Leaving provision for the maintenance of his family for a year, he went to Europe. Six months later he went to Mexico and became interested in gold and copper mines.

Mr. Goldick's search for wealth in Central Mexico proved fruitful, though he found the vicissitudes of mining ventures such that one could be wealthy one day and poverty stricken the next. But he never forgot the wife and son 12,000 miles away in Australia, and kept them well provided for while he laid by a reserve fund for a rainy day.

"I am planning to take my family back to Germany," Mr. Goldick said, "In order that my son may be educated there. Then I shall go back to Mexico and continue my work."

It is becoming quite the custom to build good roads in one day. Coffeyville, Kan., is the latest town to engage in this rapid thoroughfare construction work. On November 30, 1,500 men, with teams and roadmaking machinery, built a modern wagon highway between Coffeyville and Independence, twenty miles distant. This was done between the hours of 7 in the morning and sundown. With the exception of oiling the road was finished.

Carey Worked Hard in the Winter to Learn the Change

"Scoops" Carey, the crack outfielder, who is scheduled for a try-out with the Pittsburg Pirates next spring, probably secured the opportunity to make good in the big leagues because he learned to bat left handed. When he first played league ball he always hit right handed. He did not deliver as a batter from the right side of the plate, after the first few games, however, and, although he was a brilliant fielder he would not have made good if he had not learned to hit. Carey is an apt student of the game, and decided he must remedy something. So, during the winter, he wrote to A. A. Grant, then manager of the Broncbos, and asked him if he thought he could learn to bat from the left side of the plate. Grant answered that he believed he could, and advised him to start in the dead of the winter to learn the system by swinging a bat as a left hand hitter every day in his room.

"Scoops" followed the advice, and in the spring tried hitting left handed. For a while he could not hit the ball, although he had developed a good swing. At last, however, he managed to meet one. "It went a mile," says "Scoops," in relating of his first efforts.

From that time on, he hit better and better, and after finishing the season with his school nine he reported to Ed Wheeler. Wheeler sent the "Scooper" into left field one day and he performed so well that he soon became a fixture in the outfield. When Ben Koehler was injured and Wheeler shifted to second, Carey guarded the third sack, and accepted everything that came his way.

He hit from both sides of the plate, and after a poor start began to sting the ball regularly. He was the only Central leaguer to hit the Bull Durham sign during the season. His base running improved wonderfully after he learned that the arms of Central league catchers could not stop him. When the Philadelphia Athletics played at South Bend in the fall, "Scoops" made the best showing of any leader, with the possible exception of Pat Lindsay, gathering in two hits, a couple of flies, and a stolen base. When "Scoops" played with Pittsburg last fall he opened with three hits, six put-outs and one assist, and was the subject of much favorable comment at the [illegible]

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Sunday School Officers and Teachers to Meet With Pastor.

Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Vichert have invited the officers and teachers of the Sunday school of the First Baptist church to meet at their home, 1332 West Washington boulevard, on Tuesday evening of this week.

The Woman's Missionary society of the church will hold a meeting Friday afternoon in the church parlors. The subject to be studied is "The New Woman of the Orient." The program will be in charge of Mrs. G. Archibald.

The building on Oliver street, corner of McKee, one square south of Pontiac street, in which the new Sunday school of the church is to be held, will soon be ready for occupancy. The school is in charge of H. G. Baker as superintendent.

At the close of the sermon of Rev. Mr. Vichert, the pastor, last evening, Clinton R. Willson, the tenor of the quartet choir, sang a solo, "Come Unto Me," which was in keeping with the thought of the sermon, "An Attractive Christ." Mr. Willson is one of the sweet gospel singers in the city.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Meetings and Events of the Present Week.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church will serve a dinner at the church parlors on Friday from 11:30 to 1:30. Their dinners are famous for the quality and size of the bill of fare given and many of the business men and clerks of the city take their noon day meal there on the occasions it is given.

Because of the preparatory service held Friday evening for the sacrament of the Lord's Supper next Sunday, there will be no Wednesday evening prayer meeting this week. The sessions of the church will meet Friday evening at the close of the preparatory service.

The Woman's Missionary society will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Young Women's society will meet Wednesday afternoon from 2:30 until 5 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Frank E. Stouder, 515 West Wayne street. Mrs. Stouder will be assisted by Mrs. Benjamin F. Heaton, Mrs. John Watt, Mrs. John B. Archer, Mrs. A. E. Fauve and Miss Henry.

CAME HOME FOR SUNDAY.

Three Allen County Legislators in City for a Day.

Senators S. B. Fleming and Frank Greenwell, who, with Representative W. H. F. Moellering, came home from Indianapolis to spend the Sunday interim between the sessions of the legislature, returned to the state capital today. Representatives Roggen and Moran remained in the state capital over Sunday.

It is expected that Senator Fleming will introduce in the upper house the two good roads bills drafted by the legislative committee of the Indiana Good Roads association, as well as a banking bill and a number of other measures. Representative Moellering has ready for presentation a bill providing that money collected for dog tax shall remain in the township where collected, and it is understood that among other measures Senator Greenwell will present a weights and measure bill.

FLEMING URGES A GOOD ROADS BILL

Senator from Allen Will Present Measure on the Marshall Lines.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—It is probable that Senator Stephen B. Fleming, of Fort Wayne, will present the two good roads bills drafted by the legislative committee of the Indiana Good Roads association, to be introduced in the upper house early in the session. The two bills are to be known as the state highway commission bill and the township good roads bill. Who will introduce the bills in the house is problematical. The member will be determined by the appointments of Speaker Veneman to membership on the good roads committee of the lower house.

Senator Fleming, it is understood, was approached by a member of a special committee appointed by the association's legislative committee to select a representative and a senator to introduce the bills, and he is said to have asserted that he is in favor of good roads "to the limit." The members of the committee who will select a representative are L. Fri Slack, Franklin; David Wallace and Bernard Korbly, of Indianapolis.

Provides Road Commission.

The state highway commission bill provides for a non-partisan commission of three members, to be appointed by the governor, which will supervise the building and upkeep of the roads of the state. One of the members will be a civil engineer, according to the provisions of the proposed act, and the other two must be experts or successful business men. The bill further provides for a graduated tax on vehicles and automobiles, along much the same lines as were advocated in Governor Marshall's message to the legislature.

The bill asks for state aid in building roads and does not conflict with the present three-mile township road law, according to the framers of the proposed legislation. The act, if it is passed, will equip Indiana with practically the same road law as in effect in New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Illinois and several other states.

The township good roads bill is a short one and closely connected with the commission bill. It gives the proposed commission authority to decide matters in dispute between the county commissioners and the township trustees relative to the rebuilding of roads and the building of bridges. It provides that the county commissioners shall allow amounts up to $500 to the trustees for building bridges, and further provides that the trustee shall take charge of the appropriation and submit plans and specifications to the proposed state engineer before entering upon contracts to build bridges.

MR. WELLS' PROBLEM.

Trying to Figure Out What Became of Fourteen Promised Votes.

In his "What's Happening on the Side," dealing with legislative affairs in the Indianapolis News, W. H. Blodgett says:

"W. S. Wells, of Allen county, has a problem in mathematics—political mathematics—that he would be pleased to have some one solve for him so he may retain a part of his faith in human nature. He was a candidate for clerk of the house, and had pledges from twenty-one members that would support him. In the caucus he received seven votes. Now he is anxious to know who the seven were and what became of the other fourteen."

BOTH FEET CUT OFF BY WHEELS

Edgar Weddle Maimed When He Slipped Off Pilot.

BRAKEMAN BARBER HAS ARM BROKEN

Was Crushed Between Door and Door Jam on Train.

Edgar A. Weddle, a freight brakeman on the Pennsylvania road, lost both feet at 1:20 o'clock this morning, while engaged with other members of the crew in doing some switching in the yards at Valparaiso. He was standing on the pilot of the engine while it was moving down the track and slipped off in such manner that the pony trucks passed over him, cutting off both feet. He was taken to the hospital in that city, where he is now in a precarious condition. Brakeman Weddle is a single man and has been employed on the road only a week or two, his first trip out being on December 29. He is a brother of Yard Conductor George Weddle, with whom he has made his home, at 2532 Warsaw avenue, ever since he has been employed on the road.

BETTER BOWLING FACILITIES.

Knitting Mills to Add Another Alley at Club House.

The Knitting Mills company has decided to build another bowling alley in the club house, the present facilities being inadequate. Interest in the game has grown beyond expectation and this is particularly the case among the female employes. When the third alley has been completed, new rules governing the use of the alleys will be adopted. They will fix Tuesday and Friday nights as "ladies nights" and the men will have to give way to the ladies then. The restaurant at the club house is also growing in popularity and from 250 to 300 dinners are served there daily now. The mills are short on female help and many girls from the country and surrounding towns are expected here during the winter and the majority of these will be accommodated at the dormitory in the club house building.

OPENED WEEK'S SESSION.

Pennsylvania Division Storekeepers in Conference.

This morning the division storekeepers of the Pennsylvania Northwest system opened a meeting in the committee rooms back of the planing mills that is expected to continue until Saturday noon. Locomotive and car supplies and stock record methods are among the matters to be considered. At the meeting are Division Storekeepers C. P. Cherry, Fort Wayne; Paul Zimmerman, Chicago; C. A. Jackson, Allegheny; C. W. Soule, Crestline; W. P. Thomas, Toledo; B. Shipley, Wellsville; C. E. Blessing, Cleveland, and W. T. Westchler, Mahoningtown. Clerk Peter Zurbach, of the east shops, and H. C. Heine, of the storeroom, are also participating in the proceedings and W. C. J. Ulmer, of the local storeroom, is acting as secretary.

BRAKEMAN BARBER HURT.

Had Arm Broken and Was Injured About Body.

E. Barber, a Pennsylvania passenger brakeman, is in a hospital in Chicago with injuries received last night, when he was caught between a door and the jam and one arm was broken, the other arm injured and some bruises on the body were received. It is understood that his injuries are not of a dangerous character. The accident happened while Mr. Barber was getting ready to make the trip to Fort Wayne with Conductor J. P. Morgan on mail and express train No. 48. As soon as the injured man is able to make the journey he will be brought to St. Joseph hospital.

CAR BROKEN INTO.

Thieves Steal Seventy-two Packages of Tobacco.

Yesterday Captain H. C. Stoll sent some of his patrolmen to Montdale, Ind., to check up the contents of a car of merchandise that had been broken into while it stood upon a siding in that little station. The car carried a valuable cargo of clothing and it was believed that some of the garments had been stolen. All the contents were found in good shape, however, except a box containing seventy-two packages of five cent Bull Durham tobacco, which is missing. Captain Stoll believes tramps in search of tobacco were the burglars.

7,996 TRESPASSERS KILLED.

That Many Law Violaters Lose Life in Eleven Years.

The Pennsylvania, in a statement covering the loss of life and injury as a result of trespassing on the property of that company, east and west of Pittsburg, during the past eleven years, graphically illustrates the peril persons take when they make a highway of the railway tracks. During the eleven years 7996 people were killed and 7838 people were injured on the lines of the company. The greatest loss of life and number of maimed people was in 1907, when 916 were killed and 775 injured. And all this in the face of the fact that at every crossing and yard are boards bearing warning against making a thoroughfare of the railway.

ORDERED 196 ENGINES.

Harriman Lines Make Business for the Baldwins.

The Baldwin Locomotive works in Philadelphia have just received an order from the Harriman lines for 196 engines to be delivered in 1911. While not the largest order ever received by the Baldwin works, this deal with the Harriman lines assure employment for some thousands of workmen until well into the summer, and with other pending contracts guarantees a long busy season. The purchase of railroad equipment on so extensive a scale furthermore tends to justify the cheerfulness of the optimists who have been predicting improved business conditions.

THREE MEETINGS THIS WEEK.

The present will be a busy week for some of the men at the Fort Wayne Electric works. Tomorrow Chairman E. K. Allen will call members of the entertainment committee to a conference relative to the entertainments to be given by the Electro-Technic club and some time later in the week the Electro-Technic band will hold its annual business meeting and election of officers. Next Thursday night the Relief Union will hold its annual election and business session, which will be one of the best meetings ever held by the union.

BECOMES TELEGRAPH OPERATOR

As predicted by The Sentinel, J. E. Miller resumes telegraph work instead of taking a position in the Wabash yards as a switchman. Mr. Miller was yardmaster several months and was succeeded January 1 by Charles Malcom. Before taking the office in the yards he was night telegraph operator at the yard office and he will resume that duty after Miss Fredericka Scholemeyer, who is taking a vacation, returns to work. Mr. Miller now has a day trick.

TRAIN LOAD OF MERCHANTS.

A special train of five Pullman cars, running as a second section of Pennsylvania train No. 15, passed through the city this morning. It carried commission merchants from Pittsburg, Philadelphia and New York to Chicago, where the annual meeting of the National League of Commission Merchants is to be held this week. There were eighty-five people on the special train.

FORMERLY RESIDED HERE.

William Reed, a retired grocer from Crestline, returned to that city this morning, after spending several days with relatives and friends in Fort Wayne. Thirty years ago Mr. Reed was a brakeman on the Pennsylvania road and one of his fellow brakemen and chums was Frank E. Lininger, now a passenger conductor. Mr. Reed and Mr. Lininger were members of the same crew for several months before Mr. Reed quit railroading to engage in business.

FEDERATION MEETS TONIGHT.

The Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will hold its first meeting since the election of officers tonight, the date having been postponed on account of last Monday being a holiday. President L. D. Redding, who will occupy the chair, expects some important business to come up, included being the proposition of F. J. Schwanz, the retiring president, to carry on a series of open meetings the present year.

TO THE CORN SCHOOL.

Twenty-eight people from Lagrange and vicinity came down from that city over the G. R. & I. this morning and left over the Wabash for Purdue. They will attend the corn school at the university this week. Twenty-five students of the Lutheran college in St. Louis also left over the Wabash this morning. The company furnished a special car for them.

HURT IN A FALL.

Thomas Hibbins, the Pennsylvania slate roofer, was more severely injured when he fell from a roof at Lima than he was willing to admit for a day or two following the accident. He was hurt a week ago and is still unable to work and the probabilities ar that he will be disabled several more days. Mr. Hibbins is one of the old employes in point of service.

HAMMERS OUT OF COMMISSION.

Two of the large steam hammers at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop are out of commission, a situation that is all the more annoying because there is a great deal of work that must be done by them. One of the hammers gave way last week and the other broke its piston rod this morning. Owen Barry is the foreman at the latter hammer.

TO WORK FOR DOEBLER.

Machinist Frank Shafer and Boilermaker Frank Linerode resigned positions at the Wabash shops Saturday and this morning took employment in the C. & O. shops at Peru, of which C. H. Doebler is the master mechanic. Each of these men worked a number of months at the Wabash shops.

PUNCTURED AN EYELID.

J. Piwowarzyk, employed at the Pennsylvania round house, had the upper lid of one of his eyes completely punctured by a sliver of steel Saturday night and is off duty having the optic treated. Fortunately the sight was not injured.

TO SHIP BOILERS.

Some time this week two 300 horse power water tube boilers will leave the Bass shops for Alabaster, Mich., where they will furnish steam for a big plant. Erectors will leave next week to set up these boilers.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

W. H. Rombke, of the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

A. L. Hadley has returned from a business trip to Madison, Wis.

Foreman M. S. Willson, of the testing room at the Lights, is a severe sufferer from lumbago.

F. W. Henchen, traveling auditor of the Wabash, is in the city checking up local agents.

A. W. F. Meyer, of the Pennsylvania smith shop, who had an eye burned last week, resumed work this morning.

Division Storekeeper H. W. Hurst, of the Wabash, has returned from a business trip over his territory.

After an illness of two weeks, Nicholas Mattes this morning resumed work in the Pennsylvania flue shop.

H. Melching took employment at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning.

James Lobe took employment in the shipping department at the Pennsylvania shops this morning.

Henry Klenke resumed work at the Pennsylvania tank shop this morning. He was sick a week.

Machinist Henry Regel resumed work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning, after a two weeks' absence on account of sickness.

W. P. Kindt is kept from his duties in the stock room at the Electric works by the illness of his wife, whose condition for awhile was quite serious.

A. S. Bland, assistant division engineer of the Pennsylvania, returned from the east this morning. He was down at Pittsburg on business for the company.

R. B. Smith, assistant master mechanic of the Columbus shops of the Pennsylvania, was the guest today of Master Mechanic E. Fitzpatrick and Assistant Master Mechanic E. E. Griest.

H. J. David will go on the road for the Fort Wayne Electric works. He has been employed in the testing department about a year. Mr. David graduated from the University of Idaho two years ago.

W. E. Snell, who had a toe crushed off a month ago, and W. McGrath, who punctured one of his feet with a nail ten days ago, have recovered and this morning resumed their duties in the Pennsylvania erecting shop.

B. Schellhammer and a gang of men went to Montpelier Saturday and took down two large steel smoke stacks at the works of the National Steel Casting company, which will be replaced by new ones.

H. W. Clarke, vice president and general manager of the Denver and Rio Grande company, in his private car, will pass through Fort Wayne on Pennsylvania train No. 6 tomorrow morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Szink have returned from a ten days' visit with relatives and friends in the east. Mr. Szink is a hammersmith at the Pennsylvania shops and he has reported for work.

Gustave Bengs left yesterday for the east in the interest of the Engineering company. He expects to close contracts at Philadelphia, New York and Mansfield, Pa., for milk sterlizing machines that will average upwards of $1,000 each.

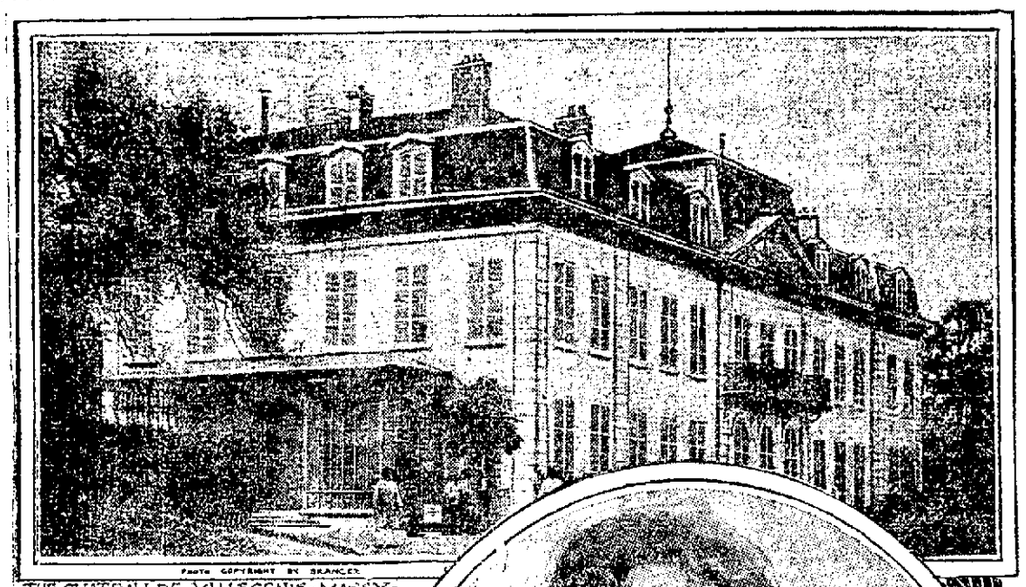
S. P. Laemmermann has resigned a position at the Pennsylvania copper shop and will hereafter assist his father-in-law, Richard Seeling, in the grocery business out on the Wayne trace. Mr. Laemmermann worked in the Pennsylvania shops five years.

Von C. Schaffer, a clerk at the Wabash freight office, is quite sick and has gone to Penn hospital for treatment. During Mr. Schaffer's absence M. McClain is performing the clerical work at that desk. Otto Fuhrman, another clerk at the freight office, is also sick and off duty.

The Rolling mills are running again, after a shut down for eight or ten days for inventory and repairs to the machinery. The management expects a better business than that which characterized the trade of the last month of 1910.

The Saxonia Singing society, one of the divisions of the Textile club of the Wayne Knitting mills, with the members of their families, enjoyed a banquet at the club house last night at the expense of Oswald Rothe, who left the city some weeks ago and now resides in the south. A part of the feast was rabbit and quail sent to the society by Mr. Rothe a few days ago. Mr. Rothe formerly worked at the mills and belonged to the society.

THE COREYS AND THEIR CHATEAU IN FRANCE.



THE CHATEAU DE VILLEGENIS-MASSY-VERRIERES

WILLIAM E. COREY

MRS. W. E. COREY

New York, Jan. 9.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, has announced that William Ellis Corey, for seven years president of the corporation and in charge of the manufacturing end of the business, had rendered his resignation, to take effect at the pleasure of the board of directors. His place, according to Mr. Gary's formal statement, may be filled by one or more of the vice presidents.

Announcement of Mr. Corey's resignation did not come as a very great surprise to many of his friends. While none of these was in a position to speak for Mr. Corey last evening, many were of the opinion that he would hereafter spend much of his time abroad. Mrs. Corey, who was Miss Mabelle Gillman, an actress, is said to prefer Paris to this country as a place of residence.

In announcing Mr. Corey's resignation, Judge Gary gave no explanation as to the causes leading thereto.

It was stated at the time of Mr. Corey's marriage to Miss Gillman, though not authoritatively, that Mr. Corey had settled $3,000,000 on his first wife and had made his son, by that marriage, independently wealthy. Actual details of the settlement, however, were never made public. His wedding gift to his bride was the Chateau Villegenes, in France. Here and in Paris Mrs. Corey has passed much time since her marriage. She has frequently expressed a preference to living abroad, and at various times has been mentioned as planning to return to the stage and to take up a grand opera career. She has also been mentioned as the possible founder of a new school and theatre in Paris.

SCARE OF BOWSER

He Feels That He Has Lived Out His Time.

MAKES A SNEAK FOR A DOSE.

Then He Wonders if It Was Poison. Mrs. Bowser Finds It Was Borax and Laughs—Funeral Is Declared Off. Threats of Divorce.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

MR. BOWSER had been good all the evening.

He had petted the cat.

He had heaved a long sigh now and then.

He had observed that it must be sad to die in winter.

He had gone to the front door three different times and given money to tramps instead of running them off the block.

Mrs. Bowser couldn't quite make him out and was almost holding her breath and looking for an outbreak of some sort when he softly remarked:

"I have always thought that when my time came to go I would face it without flinching."

"But I hope it will be long before that times comes," she tenderly replied.

"It may not be so long. I don't want to alarm you, Mrs. Bowser, but I feel myself breaking down. I feel draggy. I have no ambition. I just want to sit and think. I am not the man I was a year ago. Haven't you noticed it?"

"Why—why, you appear just the same to me. You can't be breaking down at your age. Perhaps you need a tonic. You may have malaria in your system and need quinine. You'd better stop in in the morning and see the doctor."

"There may be no morning for me!" he said sadly as he turned his face away.

"But you mustn't talk that way. Nothing serious can ail you. You are a bit blue and morbid. Your liver is probably out of order. Let me see your tongue. Ah, I am right. It is coated. Go over and have the druggist fix you up something."

"It would be no use. It's a breaking down of the whole system. I have lived my time. I have felt for a week that it was my duty to put things in order against the inevitable. No, Mrs. Bowser; no drugs can help me. You will find the life insurance policy in the deed box. You and I have lived together a long, long time, haven't we?"

"Yes, but don't talk that way or I shall telephone for the doctor."

"He would only confirm what I say. Yes, a long, long time, and you have been a good wife to me. I am sorry I haven't been a better husband."

"You have been good enough. Let's talk of a chicken farm."

No Time to Talk Chicken.

"There will be no chickens for me in this sad world. You need not go to the expense of a marble shaft for me. Just a plain headstone will be sufficient. I would have been glad to live to see how Taft and Roosevelt came out, but it is not to be. As I sit here I feel myself sort o' dissolving, as it were. However, let us face the crisis calmly and bravely."

Had Mr. Bowser been drinking root beer?

Had some one treated him to ginger ale?

Had he been using troches with opium in them?

Mrs. Bowser looked long and hard at him, but could not come to a decision. She would rouse him, if possible, and she knew one sure way to do it.

"Well, those highway robbers are after us again," she said.

He shook his head and sighed.

"I mean the gas company."

"Poor, poor gas company!"

"They have charged us for gas we never burned. The bill for last month is perfectly outrageous. You ought to stop in in the morning and give them fits. Tell them just what you think of them. Refuse to pay and defy them to sue."

"Dying men don't quarrel with gas companies," he sadly replied.

"But that last ton of coal was short."

"Probably it was, but I have got beyond coal. You must see to these things after I am gone."

"The cook is acting up, and I think I shall discharge her tomorrow."

"Better wait until after the funeral."

Mr. Bowser couldn't be roused, and he objected to a doctor being called. He just wanted to dry up and blow away like an old leaf. Mrs. Bowser was certain that it was a morbid fit, and she suggested this and that and finally decided that the best thing was to get Mr. Bowser to bed. She could then telephone the doctor and state his case. He said that was where he wanted to die—in his bed—and dragged himself upstairs after bidding the cat a tearful farewell. But her plan went awry. She must go to bed too. He wanted her there when he expired. There might be something to tell her at the last moment.

Revival at Midnight.

It was midnight when Bowser woke from his first nap. He was feeling a bit better. He determined not to die. He found himself wanting to live until next summer that he might rent a seashore bungalow. Perhaps it was a torpid liver instead of a general breakdown. He would slip downstairs and take a dose of something.

Mrs. Bowser was left calmly sleeping.

She had been warned that she would be a widow in a day or two, but she wasn't worrying over it.

Downstairs the cat arose from the rug she had been sleeping on and came and rubbed against Mr. Bowser's leg and purred her satisfaction that he was still alive.

In the closet off the sitting room he found bottles and packages galore and all properly labeled. It came to him that the best thing he could do was to take a dose of salts, and after being sure the box wasn't labeled "Arsenic" he went ahead and then crept back upstairs. Mrs. Bowser had just woke up.

"What have you been doing?" she asked.

"Been down to take a dose for my ailment. I got to thinking it over and decided that it might not be a general breakdown."

"But you should have wakened me up. What have you taken?"

"Epsom salts."

"Why, there is none in the house! You have taken something else. Come right down and let's see!"

"I tell you it was— By George, but I feel queer! It may—it may be poison!"

He didn't appear to be a dying man as he followed Mrs. Bowser downstairs. He was as active as if a contestant in a jumping match.

Medicine Case Examined.

"Which package did you take from?" asked Mrs. Bowser as they reached the array of remedies.

"T-this one. Don't tell me that I have taken poison!"

"Sure this is the one?"

"Sure as can be. You can see the label on it—'Epsom Salts.'"

Mrs. Bowser took the paper box, held it to the light and fell into a chair and began to laugh.

"W-what is it? This seems to be a curious time to giggle."

"It isn't salts. You have not been poisoned."

"Then what is it?"

"Powdered borax, Mr. Bowser—powdered borax!"

"And I—I"—

"You'll just feel wishy-washy for awhile. I use it to soften the water for my face and hands."

"Look here, woman," said Mr. Bowser as he came to his old self all in a minute, "don't think to laugh this off."

"But I have to laugh. It's so funny."

"I don't think it will turn out that way. I give you to understand that I am a dying man. I have an object in view. You at once plan my assassination. You leave a package where I will be sure to get hold of it, and I do get hold of it. I have the wishy-washy feeling. I have other feelings. I shall not die, however. I shall live on and consult my lawyer"—

"And I will consult mine"—

"And the amount of the alimony"—

But as Mrs. Bowser held up the borax box and went into another fit of laughter he turned and went up to his bed. In the morning he went away to the office at the usual hour.

FOLLY OF SCEPTICISM.

As the man of pleasure, by a vain attempt to be more happy than any man can be, is often more miserable than most men are, so the sceptic, in a vain attempt to be wise beyond what is permitted to man, plunges into a darkness more deplorable and a blindness more incurable than that of the common herd, whom he despises and would fain instruct. For the more precious the gift the more pernicious ever will be the abuse of it, as the most powerful medicines are the most dangerous if misapplied, and no error is so remediless as that which arises, not from the exclusion of wisdom, but from its perversion.

The sceptic, when he plunges into the depths of infidelity, like the miser who leaps from the shipwreck, will find that the treasures which he bears about him will sink him deeper in the abyss.

THE SIZE OF THE OCEANS.

An officer of a liner once remarked to the writer that most men seemed to be as ignorant about the size of the sea as they are of the distance between the heavenly planets. Here are a few facts: The Pacific covers 68,000,000 miles; the Atlantic 30,000,000, and the Indian Ocean, Arctic and Antarctic 42,000,000. To stow away the contents of the Pacific it would be necessary to fill a tank one mile long, one mile wide and one mile deep every day for 440 years. Put in figures, the Pacific holds in weight 948,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons. The Atlantic averages a depth of not quite three miles. Its waters weigh 325,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons, and a tank to contain it would have each of its sides 430 miles long. The figures of the other oceans are in the same startling proportions. It would take all the sea water in the world 3,000,000 years to flow over Niagara.—Tid Bits.

That the high cost of being ill is a notable fact of the period is easily figured out by the hospitals. In New York hospitals, the daily cost of a patient's maintenance, in 1900, was $1.17, and now it is at least $1.80.

The Root Juice Sensation Growing

SURPRISING DEMAND FOR ROOT JUICE AT BRADLEY BROS. DRUG STORE CONTINUES ON THE INCREASE.

Wonderful things are happening here these days. Many people that suffered with chronic troubles for years, and had lost all hope of ever seeing another well day, have been entirely cured by the use of a few bottles of the new remedy that was introduced by the scientist to the people of this community, and as the remedy has cured so many of this locality, the extraordinary sales of it do not diminish, but continue on the increase. We hear that druggists all over the state, that have the agency for the wonderful medicine, say they never saw anything like it, as it gives almost universal satisfaction, and makes so many cures that are positively wonderful. Among the many recent cures the great remedy has made were some that even our best doctors thought were beyond help. The remedy seems to soothe, heal and tone every organ of the body. Its soothing, healing and tonic effect on the stomach, bowels, bladder, liver and kidneys has been experienced by so many of this locality that it is useless to publish names, as cures have been made in almost every neighborhood. The people at Bradley Bros. drug store, 627 Calhoun street, are glad to tell all callers of the wonderful merits of Root Juice.

IDEAL TYPE OF AMERICAN BEAUTY.

THE NEW HARRISON FISHER GIRL

MISS MAURINE RASMUSSEN

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 9.—New York will soon have an opportunity of passing upon the judgment of Harrison Fisher, the artist, in selecting Miss Maurine Rasmussin as his ideal of the American beauty. Miss Rasmussen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rasmussin, in this city, plans to start within a short time for the east.

And not only will art critics be called upon to judge sketches of her but they will see sketches by her, for Miss Rasmussin is an artist herself, and has made quite a name through Chinatown studies.

Miss Rasmussin plans to continue her own art works which Mr. Fisher, who chose her as his ideal form among scores of girls of the Golden West, is portraying her facial beauty.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

SMOOTH FORGER HAD SLICK GAME

Worked It on Two Banks at Hartford City and Got $366 in Clean Cash.

Hartford City, Ind., Jan. 9.—Posing as a farmer, an ingenious fraudulent check writer, whose "pen" name is Lon Hamilton, operated in this city the past week and made his get away with $366 in cash which was obtained from two local banks—the Citizens State and the Blackford County—by one of the simplest yet cleverest schemes ever perpetrated here.

"Hamilton" played the same game at both banks, securing $187 at the Citizens and $179 at the Blackford. His plan as a good one and worked like a top, not only here but also at Muncie where, it develops, not three weeks ago he put one over on the Merchants' National bank. The Muncie forgery was kept from the public in an endeavor to land the criminal. Had it been given to the press for publication local bankers would not have suffered.

His Clever Scheme.

"Hamilton's" scheme was worked as follows: Last Thursday he walked up to the cashier's window at both local banks. He told the same story and was equally successful at each place, so it is necessar to narrate the transaction at only one of the banks. Cashier Cronin, of the Citizens bank, waited on "Hamilton," who told the banker that he had just sold two horses to George Goodin, a horsebuyer, who paid him with a check for $187. "Hamilton" stated that he did not want the money. He merely wanted to deposit it, saying that he intended to invest the money he had received for both his horses in one good animal. He had a horse "spotted" he said and would draw the money out as soon as he had made the purchase. After receiving a certificate of deposit for the $187, "Hamilton" went out.

That was a part of his scheme. Soon after Mr. Cronin had left the bank to go to his dinner the forger returned, presented his certificate of deposit to Harley Hall, assistant cashier, for payment and received the money. "I am going to need the money sooner than I expected," was his remark to Mr. Hall. The assistant cashier, knowing nothing of the transaction between Mr. Cronin and "Hamilton," did not question the certificate. "Hamilton" left as soon as he had pocketed the money.

The check, which the man deposited, was drawn in favor of "Lon Hamilton." It was signed by "George Goodin" and was made out on the First National bank of Muncie. The check for $179, cashed in the same way at the Blackford County bank, was also drawn on the Muncie bank.

Worked at Muncie.

When the checks were sent to the Muncie bank for payment they were protested and Assistant Cashier Conver came to this city to investigate. From him it was learned that the same fellow had worked a similar racket at Muncie. He operated there, forging the name of a man named Jackson, who had a deposit in the First National. The check was presented at the Delaware County bank for payment and was cashed.

"Hamilton" is described as a man of about 30, rather short, of medium build and smooth faced. Sheriff Clamme and Muncie officers together with a detective from the Bankers' association have been working on the case but so far have been unable to find any trace of the forger.

TWENTY-FIVE FAMILIES

Have Been Added to the Population of Warren.

Huntington, Ind., Jan. 9.—Warren has twenty-five more families and an added valuation of taxable properties of $150,000. L. L. Simons, the attorney for the town corporation of Warren has placed on record in the county offices the plat of the Samuel L. Good addition. It contains twenty one-acre lots and is that part of the country having a number of residences and lying north of the Silas Pulse farm. This is the fourth addition taken in by the Warren council in a year which adds materially to the list of taxables for the corporation.

Warren's present valuation of personal property and real estate is about $600,000. The new addition taken in adds $150,000, making a total now of about $750,000. The tax rate in Warren is 62.70 per hundred which means that the new addition will add to the town treasury next year over $4,000.

K. OF P. HALL DEDICATION.

New Haven, Ind., Jan. 9.—The new K. of P. hall will be dedicated on Saturday of this week. The ceremonies will be under the direction of John F. Petri, Grand Chancellor, of Indianapolis.

ORPHAN BABY GIRL GIVEN A GOOD HOME

Wealthy Young Bluffton Couple Adopt Foundling as Their Daughter and Heir.

Bluffton, Ind., Jan. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Studebaker, one of Bluffton's most prominent and wealthy young couples, arrived home Saturday from a trip which they made with the express purpose of finding an orphan girl baby, which they desired to adopt as their legal daughter and heir. They brought with them a winsome little miss whom they will take into their home as their own child. They decline to impart, even to their most intimate friends and closest relatives, where they secured the baby girl, as it is their desire to sever her connections entirely from her past life. The Studebakers have no children of their own. Mr. Studebaker is a grandson of "Uncle John" Studebaker, who ranks as Wells county's wealthiest citizen and is now in his ninety-third year. Mr. and Mrs. Studebaker are two of the kindest young people in the city, universally admired by all who know them and the little girl who is taken into their home will indeed be fortunate in finding such excellent foster parents, and such splendid home surroundings.

NEW METHODIST CHURCH.

Movement on Foot to Erect One at Huntington.

Huntington, Ind., Jan. 9.—With a promise of the donation of a fine lot as the site from one of the substantial members of the church, a movement long agitated for the erection of another Methodist church in this city has assumed material form and it is likely that before long definite steps will be taken towards bringing about the end long desired by residents south of Little river. Some opposition has developed in the church but those at the head of the movement for the new building are enthusiastic and confident that ere long a fine M. E. edifice will grace the south side.

FORMER AVILLA GIRL.

Avilla, Ind., Jan. 9.—The funeral of Miss Mary Simon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simon, occurred Sunday. Her death was due to tuberculosis and took place at the home of her parents here. Miss Simon was a former resident of Avilla, but for some time had been located at Denver, Col., where she was engaged in photography. She was brought to Avilla about a month ago.

INSTALLED AN ENGINE.

Bluffton, Ind., Jan. 9.—At the meeting of the city council a lease contract was closed with the Fleming-Harrisburg Foundry company for the lease of an engine, which will be installed at the electric light plant. By the terms of the contract a Fleming engine and Fort Wayne generator will be installed at the plant within three months.

NEW BANK AT HUNTINGTON.

Huntington, Ind., Jan. 9.—Plans are on foot for organizing another bank for Huntington. The proposed company will be called the Farmers' Loan company and the new place will be thrown open for business on or about April 1. A. C. Fast, former county treasurer, leads the list of stock subscribers, but the amount of capital has not yet been decided upon.

WILL BOOM JACKSON.

Decatur, Jan. 9.—A party of several Decatur men are planning to join the Stokes Jackson boosters' special train, which leaves Indianapolis Sunday evening, January 15th, for Washington, D. C., where they will help boost that politician, who is an aspirant for the position of sergeant-at-arms in the house of representatives in congress.

An Easy Death.

Lyman P. Sterns, the new manager of the senate restaurant, said the other day in response to a compliment on his cranberry sauce:

"My cranberry sauce is made from a New England recipe; hence it is the real thing. Beside New England cranberry sauce any other kind seems unreal, as unreat as Sothern's pistol shot.

"Once, in the third act climax of a play, the elder Sothern's pistol missed fire in his hand. At that critical moment, however, the great actor's presence of mind did not desert him.

"'Bang!' he shouted at the top of his lungs.

"And the villain immediately fell dead."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

In a Predicament.

"You haven't what I sent you for, and you have been gone more than an hour."

"I was awaiting my turn and forgot what you sent me for."

"Why didn't you come back and ask?"

"I was afraid I would lose my place in the line."

Hardly the Thing.

"She is very liberal in her charities," said one woman.

"Yes," answered the other; "liberal, but not always practical. For instance, she wanted to send alarm clocks to Africa to aid sufferers from

DIARY OF A MERE MAN.

Duty to Baby and Absent Wife Triumphs Over Temptation.

MONDAY.—Eleanora has just gone to another of those horrid suffragette meetings, and I am left alone with our little one. How lonesome I am and how little I dreamed that my life would come to this when she made violent love to me a year ago! Her promises were so farreaching. But now, alas, everything is changed! I have the child and sufficient food and clothing for my wants, but this is not enough. Where is the sheltering, all embracing love that was lavished upon me in the beginning of our honeymoon?

Tuesday.—I have asked Eleanora to stay with me tonight, and she asked me if I was afraid. When I told her that I was she laughed in my face and told me she must go to the mothers' district meeting. She is chairman. And she has not seen our child in a week to my certain knowledge.

Wednesday.—Today when I was returning from a shopping tour a woman followed me for five blocks. How frightened I was! After I had entered my home I saw her pass, looking at the house. What can she want with me? Eleanora is away at a meeting of the lady managers of the church and political alliance.

Thursday.—That strange woman again! Today she called while my wife was out. She made desperate love to me. I asked her to please leave, but she would not go. What was I to do? I flew upstairs and locked the door of my room, but she crawled over the transom and renewed her declarations. She is beautiful, and I almost yielded, but I gathered myself together and in time. With as much of a stentorian command as I am capable of I ordered her from the house, and she retreated after kissing me repeatedly.

Friday.—Eleanora has gone to a convention of the Woman's league at Boston. She will be gone three days. She left without telling me goodby and did not see her baby. I cannot stand this longer. I have tried to be a good husband, but now I will yield to the entreaties of the strange woman who has not even told me her name.

Saturday.—The woman came again today. I have told her I would fly with her. We leave at midnight in her aeroplane. What am I doing? Is it right? But my starved soul answers for me. Goodby, my diary, my confidant! When Eleanora sees what I have written she will know all.

Sunday.—I am still at home. The child has saved me. Just as I was making ready to take the fatal step I heard the child cry, and that made me hesitate. The wails grew louder, and I turned back to attend to its wants. A safety pin was sticking into his stomach. Poor little one! How could I leave him? Duty had conquered, and Eleanora need never know.—Harvey Peake in Puck.

A Great Invention.

Hearing a tremendous noise or series of noises in the lower front hall, Mrs. Goodfellow went to the top of the stairs and looked down.

What she saw was Mr. Goodfellow sitting on the lowest stair, holding his shin and muttering to himself.

"What are you doing there?" she demanded, with full weight of asperity in her voice.

"I am inventing an electric device which will move all the furniture into the back yard the moment the front door is opened at night," said Mr. Goodfellow.—Buffalo Express.

The Point of View.

"Honesty is the best policy."

"Not on your life!" blurted out the insurance agent. — St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The Original Observation.

A crude primeval person saw a date.
He climbed the lofty tree with many a sigh
And said, while perched amid the leaves he ate,
"It is a pity food should be so high."
—Washington Star.

UNDERESTIMATED.

"We'd have won the game if our back hadn't lost his head."

"Heavens! Was it as bad as that? I heard it was only an earl"

All underwear discounted 10 to 50 per cent, until Feb. 1st.

GOLDEN, THE HATTER

AEROPLANE SHOW FOR FORT WAYNE

Wonderful Craft Will Soon Be on Exhibition Here—Many New Models

As a result of the liberality and the interest that the proprietors of the Indiana Furniture company take in the boys of Fort Wayne and vicinity, this city is to have an aeroplane exhibition. The term exhibition is used and it is advisable to state that it will be an exhibition, but not a demonstration, as only models will be shown. And the products of Fort Wayne genii will be the only machines displayed, and doubters who make up the army of those who give the prophet no honor in his own country need but glance at a few of the models displayed to convince them that Fort Wayne has genii in generous bunches.

Several months ago the Indiana Furniture company offered a list of prizes for the best models of heavier-than-air machines made by boys of this city or vicinity, and arranged it so that the smaller boys were not obliged to compete with the older boys, but might go out of their class if they desired of their machine was deemed worthy. The time after which no more machines might be taken was set as December 31, 1910, and a few days previous they began to arrive in flocks. The machines will be judged this week, and in the meantime they will be exhibited in the windows of the Indiana Furniture company. The announcements of the prize winners will be made at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 17, and prizes awarded. The announcements will be made in the windows of the Indiana Furniture company and later through the columns of the newspapers.

But the machines themselves are about the most interesting exhibit that will occupy the attention of the Fort Wayne public for some time to come. Intricate and delicate as is the mechanism of the heavier-than-air machine, some of the youthful inventors of this strip of Indiana territory have succeeded in duplicating them in a really wonderful manner, and in some instances startlingly new and novel innovations have been introduced. The models are of as many sizes as styles and range from the few-inch models to the six-foot kind. The monoplane and biplane are shown in various styles, also.

The Indiana Furniture company management is to be commended for offering the best entertainment for the boys of this territory that they could possibly have, and the younger generation is sure to be particularly appreciative.

In the meantime, who wins the prizes?

BLOOD DISEASES
CONTAGIOUS TROUBLES

Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly permeates the system than any other disease. Its infectious virus contaminates every corpuscle and tissue of the circulation, and for this reason its symptoms are of a varied nature. When it enters the blood it is but a short time until the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the skin becomes spotted, rashes and eruptions appear on the body, sores and ulcers break out, the hair falls, and frequently nails on hands and feet thicken and come off. Mineral medicines which simply shut the poison up in the system should be avoided, for when such treatment is left off the old disease will break out again, often worse than before. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison permanently, and it does so because it thoroughly purifies the blood. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and drives out the last trace of the destructive germs, adds richness and vigor to the circulation and allows it to nourish the diseased portions of the body back to health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, without a particle of mineral, and its vegetable ingredients always hasten the cure by toning up the stomach and digestive members. Home Treatment book and any medical advice free to all who write.

RENE VAN LEUNEP.

New York, Jan. 9.—Although only twenty-four years old, Rene von Leunep, who arrived here from Europe, speaks eight languages.

"I have a different language for every three years of my life," remarked Mr. von Leunep, who is a dragoman, attached to the Dutch legation at Constantinople, and it appears that his statement contains truth.

"Being a native of Holland," Mr. von Leunep continued, "I learned my native tongue in my first three years of life, but I lived in France during my fourth, fifth and sixth years and learned there to speak French. The next three years I passed in Russia and learned that tongue. Then I returned to Holland to attend school for six years and learned German and English, which are compulsory subjects there.

"Three years in Italy and three years in Spain made me acquainted with the two Latin vocabularies, and my last three years in Turkey are responsible for my acquaintance with the language of the Ottoman empire."

WHY NOT TRY IT ONCE?

A man who keeps up the old-fashioned custom of sending New Year's cards to his friends included this year a second card bearing these lines handsomely printed: "Instead of returning evil with evil, try to return evil with good; to say nothing ill of men; to act kindly even with the ox and dog. Live thus one day, two days or more and compare the state of your mind with its state in former days. Make the attempt and you will see how the dark, evil moods have passed away and how the soul's happiness has increased. Make the attempt and you will see that the gospel of love brings not merely profitable words, but the greatest and most desired of all things." On these cards he wrote: "This is Tolstoi's advice. It is good to pin on a calendar where it will be seen every day."—New York Tribune.

MARYLAND COUPLE WHOSE DEATH TOGETHER BY POISON IS A MYSTERY.

CHARLES EDWARD TWIGG.

MISS GRACE ELOSSER.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 9.—Baffled by the deaths here of Miss Grace Elosser and Charles E. Twigg, who were to have been married the next day, David A. Robb, the state's attorney, has brought in outside detectives. This move is accepted as proof that Mr. Robb, although he steadfastly refuses to say so, harbors the theory that the dual death was the work of a third person. The detectives are running down the records of every one involved in the mystery and so far have had nothing to make public, although they promise a sensation. Theories are rife, but facts are scarce. Mr. Robb has admitted that he is absolutely at sea. He refused to express an opinion in the case, saying that he had no versions and was at a loss to explain the mystery.

The most likely solution of the problem appears to lie in the old human triangle which has been at the bottom of so many similar tragedies. The triangle involves both the man and the woman. Rumors connect Twigg's name with those of two other women, but it was said that he had broken with each some time before his death. It was said also that another admirer of Miss Elosser had been forcing his attentions on her recently and that this had aroused Twigg's jealousy.

CRUISERS OBSOLETE IN 5 YEARS.

The St. Louis, Charleston and Milwaukee of Little Value to Navy Now.

(Boston Transcript.)

The rapidity with which a ship becomes obsolete in the navy, notwithstanding the fact that her engines, her hull and her equipment are in good condition, is disclosed by the fact that a question has already arisen as to the disposition of the fine cruisers Charleston, St. Louis and Milwaukee, which are now lying at Puget Sound navy yard.

These ships are of recent date, the St. Louis having been launched five years ago, but unfortunately they are "unarmored protected cruisers," and that type of ship is now desired in the navy only as scout ships. A scout ship should have not less than 26-knot speed, but these cruisers are rated as 22-knot ships. If they are to be kept in commission they must undergo expensive repairs, yet they could not be condemned and sold under existing law, because those repairs would not exceed in cost the 10 per cent. fixed in the law as a line of condemnation. To sell any naval vessels not subject to this provision would require the special authorization of congress, and it is doubtful if this could be obtained in view of the small price realized for the Detroit and the low bids for the Boston.

FATHER'S GAME.

Ted was trying to keep quiet so father could read, but at last sighed so deeply that his father laid down his magazine.

"I'll give you something to do," he said cheerfully. "Bring me that small mirror from mother's table."

Ted flew to the other room, and when he had the mirror he drew his chair up close to his father.

"Now take a piece of white paper, Ted," said his father, "and a pencil, as if you were going to write. Now I will hold this mirror on its side at a right angle with the paper. Can you see your hand?"

"Just as plainly—"

"Well, I don't want you to," was the reply, and his father bent the mirror forward. "Now can you?"

"Only the pencil."

"Good. Now draw a square and cross it from corner to corner and draw curves round each side."

Ted began to draw, but his pencil went in every direction but the right one. His father kept the mirror tipped so that only the point of the pencil showed, and he told Ted to keep his eyes on the reflection without looking at his hand. He even placed a card between his hand and the mirror, covering all but the point of the pencil.

Ted found it impossible to draw the square; and when he asked his father to draw it he laughed to find that h had the same trouble. Trying this oc cupied Ted's time until his hour fo bed.—Youth's Companion.

The small daughter of a New Yor millionaire who dwells in Westcheste county asked her friends to a luncheo to celebrate the "closed season fo books." The table was round, and i the center stood a Dutch pine tre with a pond containing fish. On th branches of that tree hung miniatur turkeys and sugar plums and fruit and something from it was given t each little guest. And each turkey an sugar plum contained a dainty littl gift in jewelry from the hostess.—Ne York Press.

A FISH THAT NEW ZEALAND PROTECTS.

Pelorus Jack, a Risso's dolphin, is in the habit of escorting steamers, by day or by night, on the Nelson-Wellington run, in Australasian waters. He is specially protected by clause 46 of the fisheries regulations of the New Zealand government. Many stories are told of him. One is that there dwells in him the spirit of a brave Frenchman who was drowned while attempting to rescue a countryman. Pelorus Jack is said to take his name from this man, who was called Jacques Tregoulet. It is said that on one occasion a vessel bumped into the fish, with the result that it now avoids this particular ship as a plague.

AT THE MAJESTIC

"THE GIRL AND THE STAMPEDE"

A New Western Play Coming Tuesday, Matinee and Night.

Marked with the stamp of success comes Gaskell and MacVitty's successful western drama, "The Girl and the Stampede," a realistic and convincing play, more modern than the many western plays now being offered to the theater going public. Mr. MacVitty, to whom falls the engaging of performers for this successful firm, has been more than careful in selecting his people, only engaging performers suited in physique and liability for western parts. The staging, scenery and effects, both electrical and mechanical, were built under Mr. Gaskell's personal supervision. Critics pronounce it on a par with "Arizona" and "The Squaw Man." The plot (and there is one) is not overdrawn. Summing it all up, it's a strong modern, clean, western play that can be seen by all and will send you home feeling better to having witnessed the production.

DANIEL BOONE ON THE TRAIL.

The great pioneer romance, "Daniel Boone on the Trail," will hold the boards at the Majestic theater on next Wednesday, Jan. 11th. Real Sioux Indians and genuine Siberian wolves are carried with this company, which are used in the production and can also been seen upon the streets the date of exhibition.

"THE SOUL KISS" THURSDAY.

The spectacular extravaganza, "The Soul Kiss," comes to the Majestic Thursday night. "The Soul Kiss" is new and novel, a musical production that set the east agog and thoroughly captivated the west, where it has been given. The music is by Maurice Levi, and it is staged by Mitchell. The book and lyrics are by Harry B. Smith.

Perhaps no offering at the Majestic this season has presented so many songsters and as pretty ones. The costumes are elaborate and the stage effects dazzling and gorgeous. It is a constant panorama of color, forms and music, extravagant ballets and striking spectacular scenic effects that amaze and electrify. Devoid of much plot the piece moves with uniformity, presenting a continuous diversion—fun, jokes, wit, catchy songs, bewitching faces, gliding ballets—a thoroughly original and joyful entertainment.

GIRL CENTER OF A STORMY CLASH

MISS EDNA DEVER.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 9.—Physical clashes and bitter words marked the hearing of the suit brought by his family to have Dr. John C. Bullitt, of Norwood, declared mentally unfit to marry Miss Edna Dever, pretty young daughter of the caretaker of his home. The physician's wealth is what caused the proceedings. The family has made no effort to conceal the fact that the marriage is opposed in order to keep the estate from passing to the Devers.

Many witnesses have testified to Dr. Bullitt's mental condition, and it was over an alleged statement of the physician's father to the effect that Dr. Bullitt should never get married that the turmoil arose.

A MOST HEXTRAORDINARY GAME

Little Cockney Groom Describes American Baseball.

(New York Evening Sun.)

A baseball fan of many years' standing recently returned from a trip to Europe and has ever since been expressing his joy at being where he can once again discuss the national pastime.

The only person he found abroad who had ever seen a big league contest was a little cockney who had once visited the United States in the capacity of a groom. According to the fan, the man described what he had seen as follows:

"Beggin' your pardon, sir, hit seemed to me a most hextraordinary game.

"Then one of the men han front wot they calls the 'pitcher,' hafter distortin' 'imself most 'orrible, slys a ball hat the man with the stick, who swipes hat hit most vicious. 'Strike one!' says the gent hin blue, which seems hunasked for, has 'e 'ad tried 'is best to strike hit, has hany one could see with harf han eye.

"Then they give the pitcher hanother chance hand blime me begging your pardon, sir, hif 'e didn't miss the chap hagain, hand 'im standin' so close, too. The man with the stick hits hout to defend 'imself hand halmost likes the leg hoff a chap who is standin' lookin' hon. 'E gets 'is 'and down just hin time, hand hit's lucky for 'im 'as ow 'e 'ad a 'eavy drivin' glove hon hor hit would hof broke 'is fingers.

"Like has not the first chap his scared, because 'e drops the stick hand runs down where hanother man his standing by the hof the little cushions.

"The ball his throwed back hand hanother man 'as the gall to give the pitcher a try hat 'im. But 'e misses 'im, too, hand just then a most hourageous thing 'appens. The chap wot 'ad swiped the ball starts to run to hanother little cushion when the lyke hanother little cushion when the ball hat 'im. Fortunately hit don't go straight, but hanother man his forced to put up 'is 'ands to keep hit from 'ittin' 'im hin the stummick.

"Hof course hit 'urts 'is fingers hand 'e, not knowin' who shied the ball jumps at the chap wot his runnin', who just then slips hand falls hon 'is side. The man with the ball pounds 'im with hit most brutal, which his most hunsportsmanlike, 'im bein, down hand not hable to defend 'imself.

"'Your out hout!' yells the gent hin blue, which his heviclently true hudgin' from the language hof the chap who fell. Hi cawn't blime 'im. Hi should 'ave been put hout myself.

"The the crowd wot was sittin' haround became henraged hand they yells, 'Kill 'im!'—meanin' hof course the chap wot 'ad been so brutal. Hand then hi come haway, not wishin' to become hembroiled hin no Hamerican riot.

"But—beggin' your pardon, sir—hit's a most hextraordinary game."

THE DIARY.

"George, dear, I've got a diary and made up my mind to keep it."

"All right, my love. It's a habit that never becomes chronic. The diary is gilt edged, I suspect?"

"Yes, dear, and with a lovely limp morocco cover."

"And it matches your new walking suit, of course?"

"Why, how did you know that? And it has a sweet little pencil in a cunning groove."

"Charming. There's a calendar inside, no doubt?"

"Yes, dear. And there's a page about foreign postage and things."

"Great. And a list of the wedding anniversaries, from 'soothing syrup' to 'diamond?'"

"Yes, George. And the language of flowers, and birthstones."

"Fine. And the code of handkerchief flirtations, no doubt?"

"Certainly not. Now you're making fun of me. It's a really dear little book. Of course I could exchange it."

"Exchange it! Exchange a diary?"

"Why, yes. You see, I won it at bridge whist at Mrs. Dummeigh's, and it's so nice I think I'll keep it."

"But don't you intend to write in it?"

"Write in it! Why, I never thought of that!" Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PARKS AND BOULEVARDS.

(Louisville Courier-Journal.)

In fifteen years Kansas City has built up a system of forty-five miles of boulevards and more than two thousand one hundred acres of parks. According to a recent article in the Outlook, George E. Kessler, the landscape architect for the park board, says the parks and boulevards are a distinct commercial asset. While the system has cost 10 million dollars, "the property fronting on these boulevards has been advanced by them more than that amount."

When it was first proposed to establish such a system the proposition aroused fierce opposition and a long and hard fight was necessary in the courts before the improvements could begin.

No city is likely to make a mistake in spending liberally from its revenues for the maintenance of parks and driveways. There are different plans of making these improvements. Kansas City has made them by assessing the cost against the property benefited by the improvement. Other cities have issued bonds, and others still have made special tax levies. In whatever way provided if the expense be not utterly out of reason, parks and boulevards are a good investment and "a commercial asset" that no progressive city can afford to ignore.

WATCH US GROW!

The Company presents herewith a statement of its present financial condition and a comparative record of its splendid growth from year to year. These figures---more eloquent than mere words---give tangible evidence of splendid progress.

We have succeeded in the face of the unwarranted, malicious and wicked misrepresentations and statements persistently made against us by a few of the local agents of the giant insurance companies. Each year has brought us greater success than the year preceding. We already have approximately half a million dollars of assets, and bid fair to be the greatest financial institution in northern Indiana in another five years.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 9.—Emphatic statements from Oklahoma and southwest Missouri that the wheat crop had been damaged, put up prices here today. Texas mills were reported to be bidding urgently for the cereal at Kansas City. Bullish feeling increased on account of clear, cold weather continuing in the districts where injury was believed to have been inflicted and in territory thought to be endangered. Furthermore, receipts were expected to remain small in the northwest. There was also a liberal decrease in the amount of breadstuffs on ocean passage. The market opened unchanged to ⅜@½c higher. May started at $1.00½ to $1.00⅞, an advance of a shade to ⅜@½c and rose to $1.01¼@1.01½.

In corn the bulls were working aggressively on the long side and were aided by firm cables. May opened ¼c to ½c up at 49⅞c to 50c and climbed to 50⅝@50½c.

Oats developed strength with other grains and there was a fair trade, but by no means in keeping with wheat and corn. May started unchanged to a shade higher at 34¾c to 34⅝@34⅞c and sold at 35½c.

Provisions influenced by weakness of hogs opened easy, but recovered in sympathy with grain. First sales were the same as Saturday night to 5c off with May options at $19.15 for pork, $10.27½ for lard and $10.10 for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Jan. 9.—The effective measures taken over Sunday by leading financial interests to prevent further complications in the local banking situation were reflected in opening prices on the stock exchange today. The market was moderately active with fractional gains in a great majority of the stocks. Union Pacific advanced ⅝ and strength was shown by Northern Pacific, Reading, United States Steel and practically all of the leading railway and industrial shares.

Following a very brief period of uncertainty the market grew stronger on a general buying movement in the popular stocks, which placed many of these issues at the highest level for the present movement. Strength was most prominent in Union Pacific and United States Steel, the latter gaining 1¼. Other stocks that participated, notably in the advance, included Chesapeake & Ohio and some of the less active industrials.

The buying movement gathered momentum in the second hour, being accelerated in no small degree by short covering. Traders and speculators generally were disposed to make optimistic reductions from recent events in the local banking situation, arguing that the ease with which the trouble was smoothed over implied a bullish market attitude on the part of the unsubstantial interests. Call money opened at 4 per cent with offers in excess of demand, profit taking caused some recessions by noon, but the undertone of the list continued firm. Bonds were firm.

Profit taking sales cut into the morning's rise pretty well, the reaction reaching a point in Union Pacific and large fractions in other leaders. Stocks of local public utilities were heavy. Reading was marked up to above 157 just before 1 o'clock and the rest of the list also began to rise again in a moderate way.

SORE AND PIMPLY FACES

The best method to keep the face from becoming sore and pimply is to bathe with warm water, rubbing well, and then applying Manoline while the skin is still damp, rub vigorously until the face becomes pink. This treatment will also clear the face if sore and pimply.

If you don't have Manoline and haven't used it, you have missed the best method of keeping the skin healthy. 25c in tin tubes of 360 drops.

BIRTH OF NAPOLEON'S SON.

A Ballonist Literally Scattered the News Over France.

(Boston Evening Transcript.)

On March 20 that most unhappy of princes, Napoleon's son, successively known as king of Rome, prince of Parma and duke of Reichstadt, was born. His birth was everywhere hailed as an event of the first order of importance. It was believed by ninety-nine commentators out of one hundred to be the most effectual guarantee of the Bonapart dynasty. The clouds that hung over its future were thought to be dissipated by this new smile of good fortune. A baby's hand had strengthened that mighty hand which had so long held the rod of empire; so poets said, and so diplomatists thought. Now a few relics of his childhood and youth, kept in the imperial treasure house at Vienna, and shown to the curious, are the only souvenirs of Napoleon's son.

On March 20, 1811, the visions were all splendid to the Parisians, who counted the discharges of cannon that announced the birth of an imperial child. It had been announced that if Napoleon had a daughter in his arms twenty-one guns would be fired. When the twenty-first report was followed by the twenty-second the thousands in the streets went wild with joy, for they knew that a son had been born to the sovereign. The cannon ceased firing only at the hundred and first round. There was no electric telegraph to flash the tidings in a second to the uttermost parts of the empire, but the semaphore was working and news was at once transmitted to Strasburg, where a special courier with relays of horses held ready in advance was waiting to start for Vienna. Major Robelau, noted as a horseman and a hustler, had been chosen for this service and it was related at the time, as showing how rapidly distance could be covered when expedition was organized, that though the king of Rome was born at 10 a. m., March 20, Major Robelau delivered his message at the French embassy in Vienna at 10:15 a. m., March 23. That message set Vienna wild with joy, for the people hailed it as presaging a long period of peace in the maintenance of which both the imperial families of France and Austria would be interested.

While Major Robelau was urging horseflesh to its utmost speed and endurance, Madame Blanchard, the aeronaut, was careering throug French skies in a balloon from which she scattered handbills announcing the birth of a son and heir of the emperor. Many a peasant or laborer looking up at the balloon ran to catch a fluttering paper and learned from it than there was a new inhabitant of the earth destined to be Napoleon II., if all went well. All did not go well and there is no sadder chapter in history of hte vanity of human wishes than that which tells the captive life and early death of the duke of Reichstadt. Called at his birth, on a prophetic hint from Metternich himself, the "King of Rome," the title had become empty, even ridiculous when he was 4 years old. Once when walking with his gradfather, the emperor of Austria, the boy said he recalled people hailing him "King of Rome" and asked what it meant. The grandfather drly answesed that it meant just as much as when he was called "King of Jerusalem," that being among the many titles associated with the Hapsburg monarchs.

In reference to the relative cost of American and British heavy machine tools, the technical director of one of the leading Belgian works states that a careful calculation based on the prices paid to a well-known American and a prominent English house shows the charge a kilogram for boring mills to be practically the same. He adds that on the face of it the American machine would appear to be more expensive, but the difference in price, he found, was made up by the greater weight in the American tool.

WORLD ALMANAC HAS IT ALL.

In New Volume for 1911 Every New Fact Has Been Added.

All the phenomenal growth and development that have marked the progress of events throughout the world in 1910 are reflected and recorded in The World Almanac for 1911. To enumerate its new features would be to enumerate everything new and important that has taken place in the last year. Its great mass of statistical information on every subject in which any one would be likely to be interested has been revised and brought down to the last moment of the closing year, and so many new facts and figures have been added that apparently no information of value or importance has been omitted, while for accuracy The World Almanac has never been excelled.

The completeness with which the subjects are treated is shown by the fact that fifteen pages are devoted to detiled facts concerning the new "Science of Aviation." "The High Cost of Living" is another subject treated at length in detail.

All the important laws of congress and of state legislatures are clearly summarized. The progress of science, art, government, religion, education, labor, industry, commerce, finance, navigation, exploration and a thousand or more other subjects are set forth concisely, making The World Almanac for 1911 a complete reference library in one volume.

It is the one reference volume which may be accurately described by paraphrasing Lincoln's famous sentence concerning a people's government: It is a book of facts of, for and by The World.
